• Plans Rushed To Swap Sick, Injured POWs

Preparations Made For Resuming Truce Talks, Clark Reveals

MUNSAN, April 2 (Thursday) (INS)—The Communist high command today agreed to begin discussions on exchange of sick and wounded war prisoners April 6.

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, April 2 (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark said Wednesday "we're making all preparations" for possible renewal of the Korean armistice talks and added his command "will be ready to go."

The Allies, and apparently the Communists, were rushing plans to handle an exchange of sick and wounded prisoners. The Far East commander in a note to the Communists Tuesday said such an exchange must be worked out before full-scale armistice negotiations can be resumed.

Daniel Heads Liaison Group

Clark appointed Rear Adm. John C. Daniel to head a liaison group to meet with the Reds and work out details of the exchange. Daniel, a member of the United Nations Command armistice delegation, arrived at this advance truce camp from Tokyo. He was the first delegate to make an appearance since the new Communist peace overtures.

The Communists have not yet replied to Clark's note, but in a letter received last Saturday they indicated a "willingness to open negotiations" for exchange of sick and wounded prisoners, Clark told newsmen.

Note Of Caution Raised

Clark at another news conference later at Eighth Army headquarters raised a note of caution.

"I think it is a good time not to be too optimistic nor pessimistic," he said of the new truce overtures advanced by the Chinese Communists.

"We are looking forward to any constructive proposal to end this conflict."

Clark said he had not yet received officially the plan for ending the Korean War advanced by Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China on Monday. Chou sent his plan to United Nations headquarters, which was relaying it to Clark.

Relay Seen Satisfactory

Asked whether he would recognize the Chinese proposal if relayed to him through the U. N. instead of through the armistice village of Panmunjom, Clark replied: "We're not too particular."

While Russia and India were pressing for action in the United Nations on Red China's truce proposal, it appeared that everyone here expected the question to be debated at Panmunjom.

Officials in Washington were reported standing firm on the principle of no forced repatriation, the issue that blocks an armistice and caused a rupture in the talks last October.

Chou in his offer to allow prisoners resisting repatriation to be placed under control of a "neutral state" left the issue of final disposition up in the air.

Victory Strike At Reds Vetoed, Van Fleet Says

Plagued All Along By Ammo Shortage, Senate Probe Told

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet testified today he could have destroyed the Red armies in Korea two years ago and was ready to jump off on a sea-borne strike to accomplish that mission in June, 1951, when he was stopped by higher orders.

Van Fleet joined with Lt. Gen. Edward M. Almond, retired commander of the U. S. 10th Corps, in telling a special Senate inquiry committee they were hampered all along by ammunition shortages in Korea.

In May, 1951, Van Fleet said, the Eighth Army's hoarded ammo supplies dropped to "zero" in some types in beating off a Red attack.

Almond, who followed Van Fleet to the witness chair, fully endorsed Van Fleet's complaint of serious and at times critical shortages of ammunition on the Korean battlefront.

"Hand To Mouth" Basis

Almond said that in the early days of the war the Army had to get along on a "hand to mouth" basis in using ammunition. He said the Far East Command asked the Pentagon for a five-fold increase in the World War II ammunition table—40 rounds per gun per day—but the recommendation was turned down.

Almond said the Pentagon called the request "illogical and too high."

Van Fleet, retired commander of the Eighth Army, said the order to call off his projected sea-borne attack behind the enemy lines in mid-1951 came from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, then supreme Allied commander in the Far East.

In Europe, Ridgway said he had "absolutely no comment" on Van Fleet's statement. He is now supreme Allied commander in Europe.

"Big Firepower Man"

Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) asked Van Fleet if opportunities arose for hitting the enemy with greater vigor than displayed in the current "sitdown war" in Korea.

Crisply, Van Fleet replied:

"There were opportunities every day."

Describing himself as "a big firepower man," Van Fleet reiterated his previous testimony that American soldiers were severely handicapped by ammunition shortages throughout his 22 months in command of the Eighth Army.

The big, broad-shouldered general gave his testimony as a special Senate armed services subcommittee opened a new full-dress investigation into charges of ammunition shortages on the Korean battlefront.

Clerk Is Charged With Killing Wife In "Death House"

LONDON, April 1 (AP)—Looking bored with it all, John Christie heard himself charged today with murdering his wife in a "house of death" where five other women were strangled by a sex fiend.

Christie, a war-time special constable with a fancy for nude pictures, was bound over a week without bail while police dig further into the mass murders.

The balding 55-year-old clerk was charged only with killing his wife Ethel, 54, whose body was dug up from a kitchen floor in the grimy Notting Hill apartment where they lived.

Under British law a person can be charged with only one murder at a time.

Christie seemed entirely unconcerned with the proceedings during an eight-minute arraignment in heavily guarded West London Magistrate's Court. He was not called on to enter a plea today.

A crowd of 200—about half of them women—gathered outside the courthouse to watch him come and leave. They made no attempt to demonstrate.

A Scotland Yard detective testified Christie talked freely after being picked up yesterday after a week-long nation-wide manhunt, but the contents of a statement he signed were not disclosed immediately.

Christie, a trucking clerk, was charged with murdering his wife "on or about Dec. 14" in their flat at 10 Rillington Place, Notting Hill.

Scotland Yard's Chief Inspector Albert Griffin told the court of removing Mrs. Christie's body from underneath the kitchen floor. Christie showed no emotion.

Ike Plans Two Major Speeches Next Month

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—The White House announced today that President Eisenhower has scheduled two major speeches for next month.

On April 12, he will address the Council of the Organization of America States at the Pan-American Union here.

On April 16, he will address a luncheon meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors at the Statler Hotel here.

Britain Supports U. S. Loyalty Probe In U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 1 (AP)—Britain today threw her support behind a U. S. executive order calling for a loyalty probe of Americans employed by the United Nations.

The British statement was made to the General Assembly by Sir Gladwyn Jebb, shortly before the U. N.'s administrative tribunal was scheduled to hear appeals from 19 persons who say Secretary General Trygve Lie had no right to fire them for being "politically unacceptable" to the U. S.

Jebb said:

"It is difficult to contest the conclusion that a staff member who refuses to answer a question when called upon to testify before a U. S. body investigating subversive activities creates a situation which impairs the relationship of mutual confidence and trust which must exist between the international official and the member governments."

Russia Backs Peiping's Bid For Armistice

Kremlin Pledges Full Cooperation In Effort To Stop Korean War

MOSCOW, April 1 (AP)—Soviet Russia today praised the Korean truce bid by Red China and North Korea and pledged full co-operation in the effort to stop the shooting.

The Kremlin backing for the plan espoused Tuesday by Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai of the Peiping government was announced by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in a 1,000-word statement broadcast in eight languages by the Moscow radio.

"The Soviet Government expresses its full solidarity with this noble act of the government of the Chinese People's Republic and the government of the Korean People's Democratic Republic and has no doubt that this act will find ardent support among peoples throughout the world," Molotov said.

U. N. Sent For Red China Urged

"The Soviet government also expresses confidence that this proposal will be correctly understood by the government of the USA."

Molotov plugged anew for admission of Red China and North Korea to the United Nations, saying the U. N. could do more regarding an armistice in Korea if it included the "legal representatives" of those nations.

But he devoted most of his statement to the background of Chou's proposal, which included these highlights:

Agreement with a suggestion of Gen. Mark Clark, the United Nations commander, for exchange of sick and wounded prisoners of war.

Talks Broken Off Oct. 8

Resumption of the truce talks broken off at Panmunjom last Oct. 8 after 10 months of wrangling (largely over a Communist demand that all prisoners of war be returned, whether they wanted to go back or not).

Repatriation right after a cease fire of all war prisoners who wish to return home. Delivery of the remaining POWs to a "neutral state" for a later solution of their status. (This in general followed the Indian plan which Peiping previously rejected.)

U. S. Casualties Reach 131,928

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 131,928 today, an increase of 404 since last week.

This was a slightly larger increase than the past few weeks and apparently represented initial reports of the casualties in the renewed heavy fighting around Old Baldy and Bunker Hills.

The Defense Department's weekly summary based on notifications to families through last Friday showed:

	Increase	New Total
Killed	80	20,939
Wounded	318	97,988
Missing	6	13,001
Totals	404	131,928
Battle deaths (X)	96	23,394
Current missing (Y)	1	9,062

(X) Includes killed in action, 2,232 fatally wounded and 223 dead, originally reported missing.

(Y) After deducting from gross total 1,394 returned, 2,322 known captured and 223 known dead.

Vets Bonus Bill's Financing Plan Draws Fire Of Delegates

ANNAPOLIS, April 1 (AP) — The latest veterans bonus bill received a rough going-over by the House Ways and Means Committee today largely because of its financing plan.

The bill, sponsored by Dels. Dabrowski (D-Balto 1st), Hodges (D-Balto 6th) and Kavanagh (D-Balto 2nd), would grant a bonus of up to $500 to veterans of both world wars and the Korean conflict.

The 100-million-dollar cost of the program would be supported by a gross receipts tax of 3-8ths of one per cent on "any type of wholesale or retail business for a profit."

Same As Michigan Measure

Dabrowski said the bill was identical to the measure now in force in Michigan. He figured the tax would bring in $10,961,000 a year and permit the bonus debt to be paid off in 10 years.

The committee didn't bother with another bonus bill, virtually the same as the unsuccessful ones introduced in the last two sessions. The sponsors weren't there to back it up.

Both bills would credit a veteran $10 for every month of stateside service and $15 for every month overseas, up to $500.

The committee politely listened while each of the three sponsors expressed their backing of the bill, then the barbed questions rolled in.

"Vicious Tax," Robinson Says

Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th) called the financing plan—a gross receipts tax—"the most vicious tax ever devised." He recalled that during the Nice administration in 1936 a gross receipts tax was adopted, and "the hue and cry was so terrific that the governor called a special session to get rid of it."

Robinson said he wasn't discussing the merit of a bonus bill but only condemning its financing plan, "which stinks."

Del. Hanna (D-Wicomico), after some pencil scribbling, told Dabrowski he figured the tax would cost him, as a businessman, $6,375 over a ten-year period and as a veteran he would receive only $500.

The bonus bill—or any other fiscal measure—cannot be taken to the floor until the budget bill passes.

Senate Group Restores $182,000 In Budget Cuts

ANNAPOLIS, April 1 (AP)—Wraps came off the Senate Finance Committee version of a state budget today and through a juggle of figures the product put back $182,000 that had been wiped out by the House.

Attempts at further changes which would restore even more money, especially for health, welfare and mental hygiene, were quickly announced.

Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) ushered the scarred and patched budget from the Finance Committee as the best its 15 members could agree upon. The Senate will pass an opinion tomorrow.

From the administration's bill, the Senate unit pared $290,800 in the Health Department — slightly more than the House — and $365,880 in welfare — slightly less. It took $200,000 from mental hygiene, which would restore about $55,000 of the House cut.

House Easter Recess Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—The House unanimously voted itself a 10-day Easter recess today and the Senate gave its consent.

The recess until April 13 will start after tomorrow's routine session.

Since neither chamber may quit for more than three days without the approval of the other, the resolution required Senate approval.

The Senate plans to hold several routine sessions next week.

Apartment House Fire Claims Lives Of Five Persons

KANSAS CITY, April 1 (AP)—At least five persons were killed and 12 injured in a raging fire that swept through a 75-unit apartment building near downtown Kansas City late today.

Three firemen were killed and six other firefighters were injured by a collapsing wall and roof.

The bodies of an unidentified woman and child were recovered from the east wing of the building.

The blaze finally was controlled about 3½ hours after it broke out.

Firemen continued to probe the smoking ruins for other possible victims.

Six occupants of the building were injured.

Thirteen fire companies were summoned to battle the blaze.

House Approves Bill Giving States Tidelands Title

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—The House today overwhelmingly approved a bill giving coastal states clear title to land beneath the sea. Under some of this land is oil worth billions of dollars.

While the House was passing the bill by a rollcall vote of 285 to 108, the Senate was taking up a somewhat similar proposal.

There critics of the bill called it "give-away" legislation and said the federal government should develop the oil resources for national defense.

Vote Not Surprising

The one-sided verdict by the House was not surprising. Last year it passed a similar bill, 265 to 109. This bill got the approval of the Senate, but was vetoed by President Truman.

President Eisenhower has said he favors the legislation.

It didn't take the House long to get the job done today. It first turned down a proposal to shelve the bill, 283 to 106, and then approved it and sent it along to the Senate.

Senate Bill Different

The House bill says the states have title to the land for three miles out to sea, with the exception of Texas and Florida's gulf coast. There, because of the conditions under which they came into the union, the boundary was set at 10½ miles out.

The bill also authorizes the secretary of the interior to develop natural resources on the outer continental shelf.

The Senate bill is somewhat different. It doesn't, for instance, say anything about the secretary of interior developing resources on the continental shelf.

Wilson Reports All Of His GM Stock Sold

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson advised the Senate today that he has disposed of all his General Motors stock, worth about 2½ million dollars.

He wrote Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) of the Senate Armed Services Committee that he had retained "no beneficial interest of any kind whatsoever in any of this stock," and had made "no agreements or understandings" for its repurchase.

Reds Delay Peace Meet

VIENNA, April 1 (AP)—The Communist movement today postponed a meeting of its World Council of Peace for which it had invited Western reporters to cross the Iron Curtain.

USSR Accepts Western Arms Cut Study Plan

Move Appears First Break In Stalemate Over Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 1 (AP)—The Soviet Union today made twin moves keyed to the question of peace. It threw its support to Peiping's Korean views and made an apparent bid to close long-standing differences on general disarmament.

The disarmament action—an involved situation still under study by U. N. delegates—looked like the first break in a seven-year stalemate.

The West has long demanded fool-proof control of atomic energy and the world's armaments. Today Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky scrapped his old-time hard words of condemning the West on the question and accepted a Western plan calling for continued work by the U. N. Disarmament Commission.

Old Demand Omitted

Vishinsky also omitted any efforts to renew at this time the old-time Russian demands for a one-third cut in the armed forces of the Big Five powers, and for an immediate prohibition of atomic weapons. Some delegates speculated he was ready to go along with the West in a study of plans for the balanced reduction of armaments and putting the atomic energy under definite controls acceptable to all sides.

In the past he has refused to accept even the plan of work put up by the West, to say nothing of the Western proposals for arms control.

The United States and Britain reacted cautiously to the Russian move and said they would study it fully.

U. N. Adjourns For Easter

The Russian move on disarmament came just before the Assembly adjourned for Easter. The adjournment prevented India's V. K. Krishna Menon from making a demand for the earliest possible debate here on Red China's new truce plans. Menon had served notice he would make such a move in the Assembly just before it adjourned. He was out of the hall when Lester B. Pearson, president of the Assembly, announced several delegates said they were not ready to talk, and adjourned the Assembly.

Jets Will Fly TV Coronation Films Across Atlantic

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP)—British jet bombers will fly films of the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II June 2 across the Atlantic so they can be telecast in this country only a few hours after the event, the networks reported today.

Two Canberra bombers will fly from London to Montreal with films for the United States networks, ABC, CBS, DuMont and NBC, and for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation which has stations at Montreal and Toronto.

It hasn't yet been determined whether the films will be telecast directly from Montreal to the U. S. networks over a new microwave relay system now under construction between there and Toronto. A link to U. S. network facilities from Toronto already is in operation.

Dulles Says McCarthy Ship Accord In National Interest

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) won agreement from Secretary of State Dulles today that the compact he promoted among Greek shipowners not to trade behind the Iron Curtain was "in the national interest."

The senator's activities in that field had been denounced by Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen as "undermining" government efforts to tighten a trade embargo against the Soviet bloc by international agreement. Stassen asserted anew today that the agreement obtained by McCarthy had "unfortunate effects."

Along with the commendation for the agreement covering 242 ships owned by Greeks in this country, McCarthy and Dulles said jointly after a conference that the senator hereafter will turn over promptly to "the proper authorities" any information his Senate inquiry turns up about trade with the Reds.

And at the same time it was disclosed that in his conference with Dulles McCarthy got a little lecture about "the dangers that would result if congressional committees entered into the field of foreign relations."

Some critics have contended that McCarthy was invading the field of foreign relations, conduct of which is assigned to the executive branch under the Constitution.

McCarthy told Dulles today that was a thing he hadn't done and didn't intend to do.

But he informed newsmen later his investigations subcommittee would go right ahead without changing course at all.

He said the meeting "will in no way affect the work of the committee, except that in matters like the ship deal which affect the State Department we'll keep them more completely informed."

"Politest Boy In Town" Confesses To Five Holdup Slayings

DUBUQUE, Ia., April 1 (AP)—An 18-year-old Marine, known to his New York state neighbors as "the politest boy in town," today recounted chapter and verse of the five cross-country holdup slayings which authorities say he freely admitted.

A teen-age girl who accompanied the handsome son of a Valley Stream, N. Y., brewery executive on the four-day crime spree said "he did it all for me."

But the total loot in five killings and a brief abduction was placed by authorities at only "about $57."

As indications grew that Fred Eugene McManus would be turned over to Rochester, N. Y., authorities, the youth casually reviewed minute details of the slayings.

"I've never seen anyone like him—he hasn't batted an eyelash," said Dubuque County Sheriff Leo P. Martin.

McManus last night typed and signed a statement admitting a car theft killing at Rochester last Friday and double killings in holdups at Keeneyville, Ill., on Saturday and Spring Valley, Minn., on Monday.

McManus sought to shield his slacks-clad companion, 16-year-old Diana Marie Weggeland of Summerville, a Rochester suburb.

"She was not with me on any of the occasions," his statement said.

But Sheriff Martin reported the girl told him she was with McManus when the Illinois and Minnesota slayings occurred.

"He told me, 'Nobody has a conscience—all they have is fear,'" the girl said. "I believed him and still do. Whatever happens to him I want it to happen to me too."

Sheriff Martin described McManus as "an intelligent kid—smart as a whip—who knows what he's done but doesn't seem to care."

And back at Valley Stream, Chief Civil Defense Warden William J. Schaer said McManus was a courteous boy, always gentle with children, birds and animals.

The sheriff listed McManus' victims as follows:

William A. Braverman, 19, of Rochester, N. Y., who disappeared at Rochester last Friday and has not been seen since. McManus was driving Braverman's 1953 red and black convertible when arrested near Dubuque late yesterday.

George Bloomberg, 56, and his wife Florence, 55, slain Saturday in their Keeneyville, Ill., grocery.

Mrs. David Beaston, 43, wife of the owner of the Four Winds Cafe Harriett Horsman, 48, a waitress at the cafe. Both were slain early Monday by bullets of the same .45 caliber as those which killed the Bloombergs.

Ike Asks Congress Go Slow On Defense Pending Study

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower has asked Congress to go easy on the general set-up of the defense effort until he and the National Security Council can complete an exhaustive study what needs to be done.

The President's desires, and the fact that the high-level review of the whole subject is going on, were disclosed in a letter to Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The letter, dated March 30 and given out today, expressed the hope that the committee will not "move unilaterally into this delicate field at this time, while this process of re-examination and re-analysis is still in progress." Eisenhower said his conclusions will be made known to the committee as soon as possible, but he could not predict a date now.

Saltonstall had written the President that recent speeches in the Senate and statements at the Capitol indicate "there is concern, either that our defense program is inadequate, or that it has not been pushed vigorously enough, or that it is poorly oriented."

The Saltonstall letter asked for Eisenhower's estimate "concerning the state of our nation's military security and the changes and adjustments which you feel should be made in present programs and procedures related thereto."

Saltonstall in telling the White House about questions raised in Congress as to the adequacy of national defense measures was referring to views stated by such senators as Symington (D-Mo), Jackson (D-Wash) and Lyncon Johnson (D-Tex).

Jackson, for instance, wrote Eisenhower earlier this week suggesting that he make a public report on national defenses, with an estimate of Soviet strength.

Talks Broken Off Oct. 8

Resumption of the truce talks broken off at Panmunjom last Oct. 8 after 10 months of wrangling (largely over a Communist demand that all prisoners of war be returned, whether they wanted to go back or not).

Repatriation right after a cease fire of all war prisoners who wish to return home. Delivery of the remaining POWs to a "neutral state" for a later solution of their status. (This in general followed the Indian plan which Peiping previously rejected.)

U. S. Casualties Reach 131,928

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 131,928 today, an increase of 404 since last week.

This was a slightly larger increase than the past few weeks and apparently represented initial reports of the casualties in the renewed heavy fighting around Old Baldy and Bunker Hills.

The Defense Department's weekly summary based on notifications to families through last Friday showed:

	Increase	New Total
Killed	80	20,939
Wounded	318	97,988
Missing	6	13,001
Totals	404	131,928
Battle deaths (X)	96	23,394
Current missing (Y)	1	9,062

(X) Includes killed in action, 2,232 fatally wounded and 223 dead, originally reported missing.

(Y) After deducting from gross total 1,394 returned, 2,322 known captured and 223 known dead.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 1 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor sailed for the United States today after a filial visit of three weeks in England that embraced the final illness, death and burial of his beloved mother, Queen Mary.

Britain Supports U. S. Loyalty Probe In U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 1 (AP)—Britain today threw her support behind a U. S. executive order calling for a loyalty probe of Americans employed by the United Nations.

The British statement was made to the General Assembly by Sir Gladwyn Jebb, shortly before the U. N.'s administrative tribunal was scheduled to hear appeals from 19 persons who say Secretary General Trygve Lie had no right to fire them for being "politically unacceptable" to the U. S.

Jebb said:

"It is difficult to contest the conclusion that a staff member who refuses to answer a question when called upon to testify before a U. S. body investigating subversive activities creates a situation which impairs the relationship of mutual confidence and trust which must exist between the international official and the member governments."

Vets Bonus Bill's Financing Plan Draws Fire Of Delegates

ANNAPOLIS, April 1 (AP) — The latest veterans bonus bill received a rough going-over by the House Ways and Means Committee today largely because of its financing plan.

The bill, sponsored by Dels. Dabrowski (D-Balto 1st), Hodges (D-Balto 6th) and Kavanagh (D-Balto 2nd), would grant a bonus of up to $500 to veterans of both world wars and the Korean conflict.

The 100-million-dollar cost of the program would be supported by a gross receipts tax of 3-8ths of one per cent on "any type of wholesale or retail business for a profit."

Same As Michigan Measure

Dabrowski said the bill was identical to the measure now in force in Michigan. He figured the tax would bring in $10,961,000 a year and permit the bonus debt to be paid off in 10 years.

The committee didn't bother with another bonus bill, virtually the same as the unsuccessful ones introduced in the last two sessions. The sponsors weren't there to back it up.

Both bills would credit a veteran $10 for every month of stateside service and $15 for every month overseas, up to $500.

The committee politely listened while each of the three sponsors expressed their backing of the bill, then the barbed questions rolled in.

"Vicious Tax," Robinson Says

Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th) called the financing plan—a gross receipts tax—"the most vicious tax ever devised." He recalled that during the Nice administration in 1936 a gross receipts tax was adopted, and "the hue and cry was so terrific that the governor called a special session to get rid of it."

Robinson said he wasn't discussing the merit of a bonus bill but only condemning its financing plan, "which stinks."

Del. Hanna (D-Wicomico), after some pencil scribbling, told Dabrowski he figured the tax would cost him, as a businessman, $6,375 over a ten-year period and as a veteran he would receive only $500.

The bonus bill—or any other fiscal measure—cannot be taken to the floor until the budget bill passes.

Senate Group Restores $182,000 In Budget Cuts

ANNAPOLIS, April 1 (AP)—Wraps came off the Senate Finance Committee version of a state budget today and through a juggle of figures the product put back $182,000 that had been wiped out by the House.

Attempts at further changes which would restore even more money, especially for health, welfare and mental hygiene, were quickly announced.

Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) ushered the scarred and patched budget from the Finance Committee as the best its 15 members could agree upon. The Senate will pass an opinion tomorrow.

From the administration's bill, the Senate unit pared $290,800 in the Health Department — slightly more than the House — and $365,880 in welfare — slightly less. It took $200,000 from mental hygiene, which would restore about $55,000 of the House cut.

House Easter Recess Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—The House unanimously voted itself a 10-day Easter recess today and the Senate gave its consent.

The recess until April 13 will start after tomorrow's routine session.

Since neither chamber may quit for more than three days without the approval of the other, the resolution required Senate approval.

The Senate plans to hold several routine sessions next week.

Apartment House Fire Claims Lives Of Five Persons

KANSAS CITY, April 1 (AP)—At least five persons were killed and 12 injured in a raging fire that swept through a 75-unit apartment building near downtown Kansas City late today.

Three firemen were killed and six other firefighters were injured by a collapsing wall and roof.

The bodies of an unidentified woman and child were recovered from the east wing of the building.

The blaze finally was controlled about 3½ hours after it broke out.

Firemen continued to probe the smoking ruins for other possible victims.

Six occupants of the building were injured.

Thirteen fire companies were summoned to battle the blaze.

House Approves Bill Giving States Tidelands Title

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—The House today overwhelmingly approved a bill giving coastal states clear title to land beneath the sea. Under some of this land is oil worth billions of dollars.

While the House was passing the bill by a rollcall vote of 285 to 108, the Senate was taking up a somewhat similar proposal.

There critics of the bill called it "give-away" legislation and said the federal government should develop the oil resources for national defense.

Vote Not Surprising

The one-sided verdict by the House was not surprising. Last year it passed a similar bill, 265 to 109. This bill got the approval of the Senate, but was vetoed by President Truman.

President Eisenhower has said he favors the legislation.

It didn't take the House long to get the job done today. It first turned down a proposal to shelve the bill, 283 to 106, and then approved it and sent it along to the Senate.

Senate Bill Different

The House bill says the states have title to the land for three miles out to sea, with the exception of Texas and Florida's gulf coast. There, because of the conditions under which they came into the union, the boundary was set at 10½ miles out.

The bill also authorizes the secretary of the interior to develop natural resources on the outer continental shelf.

The Senate bill is somewhat different. It doesn't, for instance, say anything about the secretary of interior developing resources on the continental shelf.

Wilson Reports All Of His GM Stock Sold

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson advised the Senate today that he has disposed of all his General Motors stock, worth about 2½ million dollars.

He wrote Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) of the Senate Armed Services Committee that he had retained "no beneficial interest of any kind whatsoever in any of this stock," and had made "no agreements or understandings" for its repurchase.

Reds Delay Peace Meet

VIENNA, April 1 (AP)—The Communist movement today postponed a meeting of its World Council of Peace for which it had invited Western reporters to cross the Iron Curtain.

USSR Accepts Western Arms Cut Study Plan

Move Appears First Break In Stalemate Over Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 1 (AP)—The Soviet Union today made twin moves keyed to the question of peace. It threw its support to Peiping's Korean views and made an apparent bid to close long-standing differences on general disarmament.

The disarmament action—an involved situation still under study by U. N. delegates—looked like the first break in a seven-year stalemate.

The West has long demanded fool-proof control of atomic energy and the world's armaments. Today Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky scrapped his old-time hard words of condemning the West on the question and accepted a Western plan calling for continued work by the U. N. Disarmament Commission.

Old Demand Omitted

Vishinsky also omitted any efforts to renew at this time the old-time Russian demands for a one-third cut in the armed forces of the Big Five powers, and for an immediate prohibition of atomic weapons. Some delegates speculated he was ready to go along with the West in a study of plans for the balanced reduction of armaments and putting the atomic energy under definite controls acceptable to all sides.

In the past he has refused to accept even the plan of work put up by the West, to say nothing of the Western proposals for arms control.

The United States and Britain reacted cautiously to the Russian move and said they would study it fully.

U. N. Adjourns For Easter

The Russian move on disarmament came just before the Assembly adjourned for Easter. The adjournment prevented India's V. K. Krishna Menon from making a demand for the earliest possible debate here on Red China's new truce plans. Menon had served notice he would make such a move in the Assembly just before it adjourned. He was out of the hall when Lester B. Pearson, president of the Assembly, announced several delegates said they were not ready to talk, and adjourned the Assembly.

Jets Will Fly TV Coronation Films Across Atlantic

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP)—British jet bombers will fly films of the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II June 2 across the Atlantic so they can be telecast in this country only a few hours after the event, the networks reported today.

Two Canberra bombers will fly from London to Montreal with films for the United States networks, ABC, CBS, DuMont and NBC, and for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation which has stations at Montreal and Toronto.

It hasn't yet been determined whether the films will be telecast directly from Montreal to the U. S. networks over a new microwave relay system now under construction between there and Toronto. A link to U. S. network facilities from Toronto already is in operation.

Dulles Says McCarthy Ship Accord In National Interest

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) won agreement from Secretary of State Dulles today that the compact he promoted among Greek shipowners not to trade behind the Iron Curtain was "in the national interest."

The senator's activities in that field had been denounced by Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen as "undermining" government efforts to tighten a trade embargo against the Soviet bloc by international agreement. Stassen asserted anew today that the agreement obtained by McCarthy had "unfortunate effects."

Along with the commendation for the agreement covering 242 ships owned by Greeks in this country, McCarthy and Dulles said jointly after a conference that the senator hereafter will turn over promptly to "the proper authorities" any information his Senate inquiry turns up about trade with the Reds.

And at the same time it was disclosed that in his conference with Dulles McCarthy got a little lecture about "the dangers that would result if congressional committees entered into the field of foreign relations."

Some critics have contended that McCarthy was invading the field of foreign relations, conduct of which is assigned to the executive branch under the Constitution.

McCarthy told Dulles today that was a thing he hadn't done and didn't intend to do.

But he informed newsmen later his investigations subcommittee would go right ahead without changing course at all.

He said the meeting "will in no way affect the work of the committee, except that in matters like the ship deal which affect the State Department we'll keep them more completely informed."

"Politest Boy In Town" Confesses To Five Holdup Slayings

DUBUQUE, Ia., April 1 (AP)—An 18-year-old Marine, known to his New York state neighbors as "the politest boy in town," today recounted chapter and verse of the five cross-country holdup slayings which authorities say he freely admitted.

A teen-age girl who accompanied the handsome son of a Valley Stream, N. Y., brewery executive on the four-day crime spree said "he did it all for me."

But the total loot in five killings and a brief abduction was placed by authorities at only "about $57."

As indications grew that Fred Eugene McManus would be turned over to Rochester, N. Y., authorities, the youth casually reviewed minute details of the slayings.

"I've never seen anyone like him—he hasn't batted an eyelash," said Dubuque County Sheriff Leo P. Martin.

McManus last night typed and signed a statement admitting a car theft killing at Rochester last Friday and double killings in holdups at Keeneyville, Ill., on Saturday and Spring Valley, Minn., on Monday.

McManus sought to shield his slacks-clad companion, 16-year-old Diana Marie Weggeland of Summerville, a Rochester suburb.

"She was not with me on any of the occasions," his statement said.

But Sheriff Martin reported the girl told him she was with McManus when the Illinois and Minnesota slayings occurred.

"He told me, 'Nobody has a conscience—all they have is fear,'" the girl said. "I believed him and still do. Whatever happens to him I want it to happen to me too."

Sheriff Martin described McManus as "an intelligent kid—smart as a whip—who knows what he's done but doesn't seem to care."

And back at Valley Stream, Chief Civil Defense Warden William J. Schaer said McManus was a courteous boy, always gentle with children, birds and animals.

The sheriff listed McManus' victims as follows:

William A. Braverman, 19, of Rochester, N. Y., who disappeared at Rochester last Friday and has not been seen since. McManus was driving Braverman's 1953 red and black convertible when arrested near Dubuque late yesterday.

George Bloomberg, 56, and his wife Florence, 55, slain Saturday in their Keeneyville, Ill., grocery.

Mrs. David Beaston, 43, wife of the owner of the Four Winds Cafe Harriett Horsman, 48, a waitress at the cafe. Both were slain early Monday by bullets of the same .45 caliber as those which killed the Bloombergs.

Ike Asks Congress Go Slow On Defense Pending Study

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower has asked Congress to go easy on the general set-up of the defense effort until he and the National Security Council can complete an exhaustive study what needs to be done.

The President's desires, and the fact that the high-level review of the whole subject is going on, were disclosed in a letter to Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The letter, dated March 30 and given out today, expressed the hope that the committee will not "move unilaterally into this delicate field at this time, while this process of re-examination and re-analysis is still in progress." Eisenhower said his conclusions will be made known to the committee as soon as possible, but he could not predict a date now.

Saltonstall had written the President that recent speeches in the Senate and statements at the Capitol indicate "there is concern, either that our defense program is inadequate, or that it has not been pushed vigorously enough, or that it is poorly oriented."

The Saltonstall letter asked for Eisenhower's estimate "concerning the state of our nation's military security and the changes and adjustments which you feel should be made in present programs and procedures related thereto."

Saltonstall in telling the White House about questions raised in Congress as to the adequacy of national defense measures was referring to views stated by such senators as Symington (D-Mo), Jackson (D-Wash) and Lyncon Johnson (D-Tex).

Jackson, for instance, wrote Eisenhower earlier this week suggesting that he make a public report on national defenses, with an estimate of Soviet strength.

Pilgrims Throng Rome's Churches

VATICAN CITY, April 1 (AP)—Pilgrims from many parts of the world thronged Roman churches today for the first services of Holy Week commemorating Christ's suffering and death on the cross.

Mournful Tenebrae — shadows — ceremonies, following ancient ritual, were held this afternoon in St. Peter's Basilica and several other Roman churches.

The ceremony will be repeated tomorrow, Holy Thursday, and again on Good Friday, anniversary of the day Christ died.

Similar services will be held throughout the Christian world and will culminate the joyous celebration of Christ's resurrection on Easter Sunday.

On that day, Pope Pius XII will appear on the loggia of St. Peter's Basilica to address thousands of Romans, tourists and pilgrims and to give his blessing "Urbi and Orbi"—to the city and the world.

Tomorrow the Pope will hold a general audience for pilgrims who have gathered here for the Holy Week.

The air war also slackened in bad weather. Sabre jets swept MIG Alley in Northwest Korea and met no opposition.

Market Employes Leave Their Jobs To Donate Blood

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., April 1 (AP) — All 40 employes of a Williamson super-market left the job today and marched to the Red Cross blood center to donate a pint of blood apiece.

Fifteen customers caught the spirit and joined the parade.

It was led by Navy recruiting unit sound truck, and two fire trucks.

The store was closed for an hour.

Baltimore Approves Slum Clearance Site For Office Building

BALTIMORE, April 1 (AP) — The city's Board of Estimates and the Baltimore Redevelopment Commission today gave approval to the idea of clearing out about 500 slum dwellings near the Fifth Regiment Armory for a new state office building.

Gov. McKeldin several weeks ago announced selection of the 16-acre site near the armory, provided arrangements could be worked out with the city.

One of the contingencies was participation by the Redevelopment Commission, which buys blighted areas with its funds, clears them of old houses, and then leases the land to private builders for housing projects. The commission receives federal aid.

An average of about 41 tons of steel is used in the construction of one mile of standard two-lane concrete highway in the United States.

"Gag Rule" Vote In Senate Today

ANNAPOLIS, April 1 (AP)—The Senate today delayed final action on the so-called "gag rule" bill, putting off the final vote until tomorrow afternoon.

The bill (SB511) would prohibit state's attorneys or any other law enforcement officer from discussing for publication a criminal case until it comes up for trial.

Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) renewed his objection to the restricting measure and called it "probably the most important bill to come before us in this session."

Goldstein referred to two examples which he said proved that the press should be free to talk with law enforcement officials — the recent murder of a librarian in Baltimore and the slaying of two elderly women in Baltimore County.

"The papers informed us that within a very few days arrests had been made," he said. "That made the citizens who had to go out at night feel a lot easier."

Sen. Dippel (D-Balto 3rd), sponsor of the bill, interrupted Goldstein to suggest this wasn't the "most important bill before us — the budget bill is." He then moved to make it a special order of business for tomorrow.

The bill received a 14-12 favorable vote when reported out of committee.

One-Shot Influenza Vaccine Developed By Virus Expert

CHICAGO, April 1 (INS)—The scientist who produced the new polio vaccine announced today he has developed a one-shot influenza vaccine that gives two years' immunity and may protect against all known strains of the troublesome "flu."

Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who stirred the world's hopes only a week ago with reports of dramatically successful tests of a polio preventive, described his new achievement in the current Journal of the American Medical Association.

Like the creamy-white polio vaccine, the influenza "shot" is made of disease-causing virus emulsified with a special mineral oil—the substance that seems to spell the difference between failure and success in both cases.

His report emphasized, however, that the vaccine is not yet available for general application because further research studies still are necessary.

Tests of the new vaccine were conducted on thousands of soldiers in Army installations, at the Roselia Foundling Home in Pittsburgh, and on medical and nursing students at the University of Pittsburgh.

Swede Accepts U. N. Secretary Nomination

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 1 (AP)—The Swedish diplomat Dag Hammarskjold today accepted the Security Council's nomination to succeed Trygve Lie as secretary general of the United Nations.

He wired the council president—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky holds the rotating job this month—that despite strong feelings of personal insufficiency "I do not feel I could refuse."

Lie said he was delighted the Big Five had been able to agree on his successor. Russia, Britain, the U. S., France or Nationalist China could have vetoed the choice.

Lie has held the ticklish $40,000-a-year post seven years. He called on all delegates to give their "guidance, support and understanding" to the new chief in "the discharge of his heavy and difficult responsibilities."

Ike Opens Way To Fire Demo Policy Makers

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed an executive order which will permit him to fire "more than several hundred" government policy makers and put in men of his own choosing.

These policy makers, named during the 20 years the Democrats were in power, had the protection of civil service. That is, their jobs were supposed to be safe no matter which party was in power.

Republicans have complained ever since they took over that the Democrats abused the civil service principle. They maintain the Democrats put their men in key spots, and then gave them civil service protection to keep them there.

Employe Of CIA Is Found Dead

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP) — A 41-year-old administrative employe of the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was found dead yesterday. A police officer said suicide was likely.

The dead man was identified as James S. Kronthal, employed, the CIA said in an "administrative capacity." The body was discovered in Kronthal's home in the fashionable Georgetown section of the nation's capital.

CIA spokesman declined to go into details about Kronthal's work at the hush-hush agency, a key organization in this nation's cold war efforts. The spokesmen would not say whether Kronthal was involved in handling matters dealing with national security.

Lt. Lawrence Hartnett of the homicide squad said Kronthal's body was stretched out on a bed in one of two second floor bedrooms of the home. The body was fully clothed except for a coat.

Hartnett said police found an empty vial and a page long handwritten note on a bedstand. Hartnett would not disclose the contents of the note.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald assisted in the investigation. He refused to comment on possible cause of death pending an autopsy.

Chiang's Troops In Burma

Recent deterioration in relations between the United States and Burma are rooted in the activities of troops of a third state—Nationalist China. Burma wants to disarm and intern the Chinese Nationalist troops within her borders, who some Burmese charge have been supplied, directly or indirectly, by the United States.

Burma has notified the United States it wants no new Mutual Security aid after June 30. And Burmese rubber is going to Communist China.

The present Burmese government is described by the Swiss journalist Francois Bondy as "an Asian-European hybrid," whose members are, "simultaneously, social democrats, Titoists and an 'anti-imperialist' independent front." Of the deputies in parliament, 80 per cent are of the Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League. This party is an offspring of a popular front organization that waged guerilla war against the occupying Japanese in World War II.

Burma is now an independent nation, outside the British Commonwealth of Nations, but Burma receives some aid under the Colombo plan, a Commonwealth counterpart of the U. S. Point IV program. Britain granted independence to Burma under a constitution that became effective January 4, 1948.

In February Burma was reported to be negotiating an agreement with the United States for arms aid "on a major scale." Also in February, Burma turned down an offer by Chinese Communists for aid against the Chinese Nationalist troops in the northeast frontier region. A month previously, Burma had sent Great Britain a year's notice ending an agreement under which Burma was to buy all its arms from Britain.

The United States and Great Britain jointly sponsored Burma when she was accepted as the 58th member state in the United Nations. Burma was the first nation to recognize Communist China. Burma did, however, vote to support the initial UN resolution to take action against aggression in Korea.

At the UN Assembly in Paris in 1951 Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky charged that high ranking U. S. officers were with the Chinese Nationalists in Burma. The U. S. representatives categorically denied the charges.

According to Paul Ward of the Baltimore Sun, "Agents of the (U. S.) Central Intelligence Agency, it has since been learned, had attached themselves to the Chinese Nationalist remnants in Burma but not for the purpose attributed to them by Vishinsky. Mainly pro-Burmese, their purpose, it is understood, was chiefly to hold the Chinese forces together and keep them from breaking up into marauding bands."

However, Joseph and Stewart Alsop have reported that General Li Mi's Chinese Nationalist troops in Burma were supplied by air by a system set up "with the assistance of our Central Intelligence Agency." And, they add, a large-scale raid by Li Mi across the border into China's Yunnan Province in the summer of 1951 was made "still with CIA assistance."

The Color Stalemate

According to testimony before the House Commerce Committee, color telecasting could start tomorrow morning and even those with the old fashioned black and white sets—there are more than 20,000,000 of them—could see the programs. Of course their picture would appear black and white, but, after all, people are used to that by now. That is, people who live in television territory and have sets.

But the hitch is that such telecasts would be illegal under current regulations of the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC a year or so ago approved a certain type of color telecast as standard. But this type, the product of the Columbia Broadcasting System, cannot be viewed on black and white sets. It is what is known in the trade as "incompatible."

The Radio Corporation of America's system, however, can be received by owners of color or black and white sets. People who have seen the two color systems in action say there is little or no difference in the quality of the reception. But the CBS system, as noted above, makes the millions of present sets so much junk.

Now even CBS admits that the present situation is impossible. Testifying before the House committee, Frank Stanton, CBS president, said it would be "economically foolish" to try to introduce his network's color TV system to the public.

In view of all this, the time has obviously come for FCC members to swallow their pride and reverse themselves—which in the public interest would seem to be the fairest thing to do—or turn everyone loose and let the color tubes fall where they may. Certainly some way should be found to end this long stalemate before everyone gets stuck with a set that is completely obsolete.

One Of 'Les Fauves'

In the news accounts of his death Raoul Dufy is described as "one of the giants of modern French painting." The phrase was written, it seems likely, merely to identify him—but it is quite a remarkable tribute, for its credits this 75-year-old painter with being one of the moderns.

It's true that Dufy was one of "les fauves," which means "the wild men" or "the wild beasts," who set the art world by the ears at the beginning of this century. Among the others were Matisse, Picasso, Braque, Rouault, Utrillo—all of them still living and some of them still shocking the poor bewildered public if not the critics. Yet Dufy's work is understandable by anyone who likes bright color and crisp line, which is more than can be said for a good many moderns.

That is to say that the moderns may have no use for him. Many of them are painting in ways that are completely beyond the comprehension of the average layman and they not only refuse to court popularity but tend to look down their noses at any artist who happens to achieve it. Dufy has achieved at least a measure of popularity when prints of his gay watercolors can be bought at any well-stocked art store.

Does it make any difference? Well, let the question go unanswered. Raoul Dufy was one of a group of young painters who revolutionized the art of the last century and lived to know that his particular contribution had found wide acceptance. For a long time to come there will be thousands who will find pleasure in his pictures of racetracks and regattas that carry the color, the movement, the very air of holiday to the delighted eye.

How To Keep Well

Exercises For Back Muscles

Backache has acquired an unwarranted stigma. There are many causes, varying from fatigue to a slipped disk or arthritis. Examination and X-ray are needed to make the diagnosis; but relief usually is the reward for knowing and therein lies the advantage of going into the problem the right way.

Many of the serious types are easier to remedy than are the simpler varieties. Slipped disk, the most common cause of sciatica, is amenable to surgical treatment. On the other hand when faulty posture, strain, or fatigue are responsible, a long series of procedures may be required to change existing habits and strengthen the parts. These measures are time consuming, boring, and tiresome but there is no other way to accomplish the end result. Most victims become discouraged and, so far as they are concerned, treatment is worse than the disease.

Nevertheless, these simple exercises and preliminary measures are not that difficult. Good posture is worth its weight in gold. It helps not only the back but improves the workings of the abdominal organs and the heart and pays dividends in appearance. Furthermore, by concentrating on a few maneuvers, an erect carriage soon becomes part of daily living. When standing or walking, the head should be kept up and the shoulders back. An attempt must be made to form a crease across the upper abdomen by holding the chest up and forward and elevating the front of the pelvis. The toes should be pointed straight ahead and most of the weight taken off the heels. A good bed is important; the mattress ought to be firm enough to support the lower trunk and back. In addition, boards or a large piece of plywood placed longitudinally between the mattress and the springs will prevent sagging. Weight reduction is of value for the obese. Meanwhile the bay window may be tucked in with an abdominal binder.

Now and then backache is aggravated by high heels and until sensible shoes are worn distress will continue. The best footgear is the Oxford type shoe with a broad rubber heel and a straight last. Strain is avoided by not lifting heavy loads without first squatting. It also is advisable not to bend backward or forward with the knees straight. Standing too long creates unnecessary strain, more so while shopping or in a swaying bus or train.

These main principles of back hygiene are easy to follow; but to make treatment complete, it may be wise to strengthen thru exercise the muscles of the back, abdomen, buttocks, and thighs. This usually is recommended after acute pain has subsided and the individual is ready to resume work. Abdominal muscles are strengthened by lying flat on the back with the knees flexed and raising and lowering the head and chest. As an alternate, the heels are raised off the floor with the legs extended. The muscles of the pelvis and gluteal region get a workout by lying on the floor with the knees flexed and raising the buttocks; then shifting from side to side, being careful to keep the lumbar spine flat. A worthwhile exercise for the muscles of the back is first to lie down and then flex and bring up the knees to the chest where they are held securely with the arms. There are many others, some of which follow the pattern of ordinary setting up exercises.

Corsets, belts, and braces are reserved for those who for some reason cannot correct posture or improve muscle tone. This is logical because these auxiliaries at best are only temporary aids and tend to weaken the affected muscles. They do, however, keep the spine in good alignment, thereby minimizing strain on the weakened parts.

CLOSED WINDOWS

D. J. writes: Do you think that sleeping in a room without an open window is unhealthy?

REPLY

No, because bedrooms are not airtight and sufficient oxygen enters through the many cracks and crevices in and about the windows and doors. But whether the windows should be open or closed depends upon the individual. I for one sleep better when the room is cool and the air fresh.

ELEVATING THE FEET

H. H. F. writes: Is it harmful or beneficial, when resting in bed, to keep the feet raised about a foot?

REPLY

Neither harmful nor beneficial for those in good health. But when the legs are puffy because of varicose veins or phlebitis, elevating the feet while resting will be helpful. On the other hand, this posture might prove harmful when the arterial circulation is poor.

SLIMMING DIET AND VITAMINS

Mrs. A. writes: Should a person on an 800 calorie diet take vitamin supplements?

REPLY

Supplements usually are advised because most 800 calorie diets are incompelte. The only objection to the use of vitamins is that they may improve appetite and make it harder for the would-be reducer to hew to the line.

Speaker Martin Asks Ike To Keep Him Informed On Job Appointments; Colleagues Crack Down On Michigan Congressman Clare Hoffman

WASHINGTON — Speaker Joe Martin is the easiest man in Congress to get along with, but he also has certain ideas on how job appointments should be handled. They are not radical ideas, and in a half-serious, half-joking way he expressed his views to the highest Republican in the land—Dwight D. Eisenhower.

At a Monday-morning White House conference, Joe reminded the President that it was customary to let congressmen and senator know in advance before a job was to be filled in their state so they could get credit for helping make it. The speaker, however, didn't come out with this directly. He backed into it by asking:

"Is it the policy of this administration to notify members of Congress when appointments are about to be made in their districts?"

President Eisenhowere replied that it was.

"Well, does that policy include members of our own party?"

There was a twinkle in the speaker's eye, but Ike couldn't quite tell what was brewing behind the twinkle. He nodded in the affirmative.

"Does that also apply to the speaker of the House?" pursued the speaker.

"Yes," replied the President.

"Well, there were four appointments in my district last week," concluded the speaker, "and I had to read about them in the newspapers. Do I have to subscribe to every paper in my district?"

Eisenhower turned to Assistant President Sherman Adams and, somewhat irritated, told him to tighten up appointment-liaison with Republicans in Congress.

Congressman From Allegan

Congressman Clare Hoffman of Allegan, Mich, now 77 years old, is one of the stormiest Republicans on Capitol Hill. His acid remarks are shot at Republicans as well as Democrats, and he is just as likely to tangle with his own GOP leadership as anyone else.

Having reported on the tempestuous activities of the Michigan solon over the years, I once offered him a chance to even up the score and invited him to write a guest column while I was on vacation. He accepted with alacrity and proceeded to take me to the cleaners in a column which was duly published. Among his mildest epithets were "deceiver of the people" . . . "pretends to give exclusive information which has already appeared" . . . "giver off of effluvium colloguially known as stink."

In view of the above, I should not have been surprised when at 9:50 the other morning I was handed a subpoena ordering me to appear at 10 a. m. before Congressman Hoffman's special committee investigating undue influence regarding small business.

I had got the congressman's district in Michigan mixed up and he was fit to be tied. This was an error, which I shouldn't have made and for which I apologized. The congressman comes from Allegan, a town listed by the Encyclopaedia Britannica as having 4,526 population, not far from the east bank of Lake Michigan and about midway between Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids. I shall try to keep this straight in the future.

Anyway, the fuss over the congressman's district pretty well obscured the basic point of the story—namely, whether the Air Force was wrong, as Hoffman contended, in not awarding a big contract to a very small Michigan firm not equipped to handle it.

Crackdown On Clare

Having made a mistake about the geographic location of the congressman's district, I did not object to being hauled on the carpet by the gentleman from Allegan. However, some other members of his committee did, among them Congressman Charles Brownson of Indianapolis, a Republican, and Frank Karsten of St. Louis, a Democrat. They objected, among other things, to having sudden subpoenas issued without other members of the committee knowing it and setting up special subcommittees to pry into anything the congresman from Allegan wanted to poke his nose in, without a vote by other members.

Later, Speaker Joe Martin took objection to this too and bluntly told Hoffman to call off his extracurricular activities.

What aroused Martin was two things. First, he feared that Hoffman's idea of hauling in newsmen whom he didn't like might set a precedent for other comimttee chairmen to subpoena anyone who wrote a story Congress didn't like. The speaker feared an atmosphere whereby no newsman would dare criticize Congress.

Second, Joe heard that the congressman from Allegan had gone off on an amazing tangent and planned to investigate CIO influence in a Democratic convention in Michigan back in 1950. This is a long way from probing federal spending. And when the speaker heard of this, he, together with GOP Leader Charlie Halleck of Indiana, decided it was time to act.

The congresman from Allegan was told that he would go whistling for money to carry out his unauthorized investigations, if he didn't stop them.

Meantime, Democratic Congressmen John McCormack of Massachusetts, William Dawson of Illinois, and Karsten of Missouri demanded a showdown on why Hoffman was wasting the cimmittee's time by an unauthorized investigation of something that happened in the Democratic party in Michigan three years ago.

When the showdown meeting started, a majority of the committee, including most GOP members were all set to pass a resolution curbing Chairman Hoffman's investigative powers. However, rather than suffer a reprimand—there were news reporters prsent — the Michigan politico ate crow and promised not to step out of line in the future.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Sour Aftermath

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower's troubles with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy have ended for the time being, with the overwhelming confirmation of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow. But they are likely to start rather soon again, if the Wisconsin senator's statements of his own intentions are at all trustworthy.

At the height of the recent storm, McCarthy admitted to one of the ablest Washington reporters that he would be heavily defeated on the Bohlen issue, but added bluntly, "You wait, we're gonna get Dulles's head."

In other words, McCarthy means to shoot another secretary of State out from under another President. Having made his own reputation by blackening the name of Dean G. Acheson, he intends to go forward to new triumphs by attacking John Foster Dulles. McCarthy will no doubt deny this intention, and the remark which revealed it. Yet the remark is accurately quoted. It clearly implies that McCarthy will play the part towards Eisenhower that Huey Long played towards Franklin Roosevelt, before the assassin's bullet cut short Long's career.

Closer Co-Ordination Planned

The President's response to McCarthy's challenge meanwhile remains somewhat doubtful. The White House staff has been very free with descriptions of the anger to which Eisenhower was aroused by McCarthy's recent onslaught against Bohlen and Dulles. Yet the President's anger has not prevented him from making something very like a commitment, which may well embarrass him deeply in the future.

Sen. Robert A. Taft and Sen. William Knowland loyally and admirably bore the brunt of the Bohlen row in the Senate. But they did not enjoy doing so, and they are reported, on undoubted authority, to have complained to the President. The President is stated, on the same authority, to have promised the Senate leaders to avoid making any further requests that are likely to divide the Republican party in Congress.

There is to be even closer co-ordination with the congressional leadership, to make sure that nothing like the Bohlen row happens again. Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, the White House liaison officer at the Capitol, has even circulated this news through the lobbies.

On the surface, this makes sense. In fact, however, the President can only buy peace within his party at a shocking price, as long as Sen. McCarthy positively desires to pick a quarrel. McCarthy and the other key members of his group of anti-Eisenhower Republicans are strongly entrenched in the Senate Appropriations Committee, headed by Sen. Styles Bridges. The next stage in the process of "getting Dulles's head" is likely to be a venomous attack on State Department and Foreign Aid appropriations.

Ike Must Choose

Sen. Taft may well advise heavy cuts in these appropriations in order to keep the peace. The President will then have to choose between honoring his semi-commitment to keep the peace at all costs, or maintaining his foreign policy.

If Eisenhower seeks to keep the peace, McCarthy will surely find a way to disclose and emphasize his victory, thus making himself bigger at the President's expense. Nothing less can be expected from the man who has just grabbed the public credit for the State Department's long and laboriously negotiated agreement with the Greeks, to halt Greek flag shipments of contraband goods to Communist China.

In short, the President will lose most of his freedom of action by seeking to appease McCarthy and his little band of followers, and he will not gain in other ways either. Yet the decision to fight McCarthy has "got to wait for the next round," in the phrase of a key man on the White House staff who would have liked the decision to be taken now.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Politics is politics the world over, and even Soviet Russia with its dictatorship is no exception. That's the real meaning of the various moves being made by Malenkov to strengthen his position internally, first, by reducing prices of food and consumer goods and, second, by making a gesture of peace in the Korean situation.

Both are important moves by which the new regime hopes to curry favor with the people in Soviet Russia. The latter are fearful of another large-scale war.

But why does a dictator have to worry about "public opinion?" The late Joseph Stalin answered this question once when he was talking with Harry Hopkins, personal representative of President Roosevelt at the time of a special mission to Moscow. Hopkins had been talking of the importance of public opinion in the United States when Stalin interrupted him to say in effect: "We have our problems of public opinion, too."

The danger of revolution is always present in a dictatorship and a controlled press is expected to keep public opinion in line for the ruling powers.

Claim Red Victory

But, it will be asked, just how does the Korean peace gesture fit in with previous objectives? So far as the people of Russia and China, too, are concerned, they will be told that the United Nations instigated a war in Korea and tried to drive its armies above the 38th Parallel and failed.

From the Moscow and Peiping viewpoint, the Korean War represents a big victory over the Western democracies.

From the realistic America viewpoint, Korea witnessed a major defeat for American military commanders. But the defeat cannot be attributed to their lack of military skill or judgment or courage. It is due entirely to the refusal of so-called Allied governments—for political reasons of their own—to allow maximum military power to be used to drive the enemy out of North Korea.

While the American officer always in command of United Nations troops has been theoretically the supreme military chief of the forces in the field, actually he has been compelled to submit constantly to the back-seat driving of diplomats of 12 different countries. He has also been unable to get in return from them a strict embargo on trading with the common enemy. Only now—nearly three years after the Korean War began—is there a discussion of serious measures to prevent contraband cargoes from reaching Red China's ports.

But will the Korean War be ended by the new parleys? The Red Chinese premier, who has launched the new negotiations, is just back from a long visit to Moscow. Doubtless all the tricks of the plan were carefully worked out in detail with the Soviet government in recent weeks. Demand for a "cease fire" will be made just as soon as the problem of exchanging prisoners is settled. A "compromise" on this point may be expected. Then the Communists will have their way on the major issues. For they will refuse to get out of North Korea. The objective of an October 1950 resolution of the UN, on the other hand, was to secure peace in all Korea and to punish the aggressor. Korea will remain devided—an armed camp—while the bickering goes on.

Means Of Stockpiling

There is little likelihood that any punishment will be visited on either the Red China or the North Korean governments. The palavering will continue for months on unsettled "political" questions. Meanwhile, Soviet Russia will send her supplies to the Far East just above the Yalu to build up military strength there and prepare another threat not only against the UN forces, who will have to stand guard in present numbers in Korea, but also against Japan. Under the terms of the one-sided armistice now being proposed, the UN troops cannot be reinforced or additional airplanes or weapons sent into Korea for a build-up corresponding to the increased Russian aid that can be readily mobilized on the Manchurian-Korean border.

As is customary in the Far East, a truce is merely a means of stockpiling and building up weapons and supplies for future moves. All this is part of the larger game of getting concessions in an overall settlement. The Moscow price is to secure advantages for her position not only in Asia but in Europe.

The Allies will be given another chance to make concessions to the Communists once they swallow the bait about an immediate "cease fire." Then, if actual hostilities do cease for a while, the leverage toward getting compliance with UN objectives will have been lost and thereafter any resumption of fighting in Korea would be the responsibility of the Western countries. It's a simple way for the Communists to get not only a military but a political victory.

What else can be done? A time limit on the armistice negotiations can be imposed—not more than 20 days—after which, unless UN terms are accepted, all parleys would be dropped and fighting would be resumed. This kind of maneuver would test whether, as so many wishful thinkers are saying, the Communists have had enough, are feeling the military pressure and want to quit. It's the kind of action—a time limit on talk—that should have been taken in May 1951, when, as General Van Fleet recently testified, the UN had a military advantage.

The entire answer to Korea is a military one—and when the Allies get ready to act in concert and in strict fidelity to one another on the matter of trading with the enemy, the terms of peace can be dictated by the United States and her allies instead of by Red China and Soviet Russia, which is the humiliating fact of today's dispatches no matter how the latest offers from Peiping are interpreted.

Butter

I do not want to get into a controversy between butter and oleomargarine. I eat butter; I do not eat oleo. It is a matter of taste and therefore is beyond discussion.

But butter has become an outpriced article of food. It is today 89 cents a pound; oleo, artificially dyed yellow to deceive the eye, is 39 cents a pound. To many there is not a sufficient difference in tast and value to justify the difference in price.

At present prices, butter has practically disappeared from the sandwich. Either the bread is served dry or the concoction called mayonnaise is put on the bread. Mayonnaise has a distinctive flavor and is not sufficiently neutral for a sandwich. Personally, I prefer butter; you are entitled to your taste. Some use a confusion called "Russian dressing." It is mayonnaise mixed with ketchup or something else that is red. In Russia, they never heard of it. All this is, of course, a matter of taste; I would call it a coarsening of the taste buds.

Again, I notice how stingy restaurants, hotels, dining cars and other purveyors of food have become about butter. The spread used to be served profligately, particularly if one ordered such a dish as wheat cakes. Today, the pats are small and carefully measured. At present prices, butter is priced out of the market. Those who still demand price supports may see the day when the only effective customer for butter will be the government, purchasing, with the taxpayers' money, a commodity that is not even being used for axle-grease—a phrase that is not in the vocabulary of the present generation.

The fact that the sales of butter and oleo are about equal in the United States should teach the farmer that whereas he can put political pressure on government to get price support for his product, with huge government purchases, he can out-price his product until he loses his normal market and becomes wholly dependent upon a political market.

For instance, in the United States, in 1934, the per capita consumption of butter was 18.2 pounds. Compare that figure with the present situation:

		PER CAPITA Butter	Oleo
1950		10.6	6.0
1951		9.5	6.5
1952		8.8	7.8
1953	estimate	8.6	8.3

The consumption of oleo means that the dairy farmer is stuck with butter fat. He cannot hope that the price of liquid milk will rise continuously to offset the loss of the butter market. Now comes the story from the Middle West that an ice cream has come on the market, concocted of soya beans, dried milk, and some other ingredients, that tastes like ice cream, looks like ice cream but is not ice cream. I am told that this new product is cheaper than ice cream and wherever introduced has found a satisfactory market.

Therefore, it is to be assumed that this will be another item to add to the woes of the American farmer.

Also, if the tariff policies of the Eisenhower administration move in the direction of Henry Ford II's free trade concepts, we shall be importing increasing quantities of European cheese. I recently attended an excellent dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria where a wide assortment of American-made cheeses was served. I tasted perhaps half a dozen of these cheeses and found them of excellent flavor and texture and comparable to some of the better European cheeses.

A large cheese industry could develop in the United States, but American manufacturers of this product could never hope to compete with European lower cost without some protection. The American cheese would be outpriced.

This is one of the most important social problems in the United States. It is impossible for any country long to produce commodities for the sole purpose of destroying them, while paying the producer a subsidy. It demoralizes the producer as a human being, apart from placing upon the country the burden of waste. Such a policy, continued over generations, would reduce the American farmer to the condition of a peasant and nullify our philosophy of a classless society.

The farm problem requires a new approach.

Chiang's Troops In Burma

Recent deterioration in relations between the United States and Burma are rooted in the activities of troops of a third state—Nationalist China. Burma wants to disarm and intern the Chinese Nationalist troops within her borders, who some Burmese charge have been supplied, directly or indirectly, by the United States.

Burma has notified the United States it wants no new Mutual Security aid after June 30. And Burmese rubber is going to Communist China.

The present Burmese government is described by the Swiss journalist Francois Bondy as "an Asian-European hybrid," whose members are, "simultaneously, social democrats, Titoists and an 'anti-imperialist' independent front." Of the deputies in parliament, 80 per cent are of the Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League. This party is an offspring of a popular front organization that waged guerilla war against the occupying Japanese in World War II.

Burma is now an independent nation, outside the British Commonwealth of Nations, but Burma receives some aid under the Colombo plan, a Commonwealth counterpart of the U. S. Point IV program. Britain granted independence to Burma under a constitution that became effective January 4, 1948.

In February Burma was reported to be negotiating an agreement with the United States for arms aid "on a major scale." Also in February, Burma turned down an offer by Chinese Communists for aid against the Chinese Nationalist troops in the northeast frontier region. A month previously, Burma had sent Great Britain a year's notice ending an agreement under which Burma was to buy all its arms from Britain.

The United States and Great Britain jointly sponsored Burma when she was accepted as the 58th member state in the United Nations. Burma was the first nation to recognize Communist China. Burma did, however, vote to support the initial UN resolution to take action against aggression in Korea.

At the UN Assembly in Paris in 1951 Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky charged that high ranking U. S. officers were with the Chinese Nationalists in Burma. The U. S. representatives categorically denied the charges.

According to Paul Ward of the Baltimore Sun, "Agents of the (U. S.) Central Intelligence Agency, it has since been learned, had attached themselves to the Chinese Nationalist remnants in Burma but not for the purpose attributed to them by Vishinsky. Mainly pro-Burmese, their purpose, it is understood, was chiefly to hold the Chinese forces together and keep them from breaking up into marauding bands."

However, Joseph and Stewart Alsop have reported that General Li Mi's Chinese Nationalist troops in Burma were supplied by air by a system set up "with the assistance of our Central Intelligence Agency." And, they add, a large-scale raid by Li Mi across the border into China's Yunnan Province in the summer of 1951 was made "still with CIA assistance."

The Color Stalemate

According to testimony before the House Commerce Committee, color telecasting could start tomorrow morning and even those with the old fashioned black and white sets—there are more than 20,000,000 of them—could see the programs. Of course their picture would appear black and white, but, after all, people are used to that by now. That is, people who live in television territory and have sets.

But the hitch is that such telecasts would be illegal under current regulations of the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC a year or so ago approved a certain type of color telecast as standard. But this type, the product of the Columbia Broadcasting System, cannot be viewed on black and white sets. It is what is known in the trade as "incompatible."

The Radio Corporation of America's system, however, can be received by owners of color or black and white sets. People who have seen the two color systems in action say there is little or no difference in the quality of the reception. But the CBS system, as noted above, makes the millions of present sets so much junk.

Now even CBS admits that the present situation is impossible. Testifying before the House committee, Frank Stanton, CBS president, said it would be "economically foolish" to try to introduce his network's color TV system to the public.

In view of all this, the time has obviously come for FCC members to swallow their pride and reverse themselves—which in the public interest would seem to be the fairest thing to do—or turn everyone loose and let the color tubes fall where they may. Certainly some way should be found to end this long stalemate before everyone gets stuck with a set that is completely obsolete.

One Of 'Les Fauves'

In the news accounts of his death Raoul Dufy is described as "one of the giants of modern French painting." The phrase was written, it seems likely, merely to identify him—but it is quite a remarkable tribute, for its credits this 75-year-old painter with being one of the moderns.

It's true that Dufy was one of "les fauves," which means "the wild men" or "the wild beasts," who set the art world by the ears at the beginning of this century. Among the others were Matisse, Picasso, Braque, Rouault, Utrillo—all of them still living and some of them still shocking the poor bewildered public if not the critics. Yet Dufy's work is understandable by anyone who likes bright color and crisp line, which is more than can be said for a good many moderns.

That is to say that the moderns may have no use for him. Many of them are painting in ways that are completely beyond the comprehension of the average layman and they not only refuse to court popularity but tend to look down their noses at any artist who happens to achieve it. Dufy has achieved at least a measure of popularity when prints of his gay watercolors can be bought at any well-stocked art store.

Does it make any difference? Well, let the question go unanswered. Raoul Dufy was one of a group of young painters who revolutionized the art of the last century and lived to know that his particular contribution had found wide acceptance. For a long time to come there will be thousands who will find pleasure in his pictures of racetracks and regattas that carry the color, the movement, the very air of holiday to the delighted eye.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Exercises For Back Muscles

Backache has acquired an unwarranted stigma. There are many causes, varying from fatigue to a slipped disk or arthritis. Examination and X-ray are needed to make the diagnosis; but relief usually is the reward for knowing and therein lies the advantage of going into the problem the right way.

Many of the serious types are easier to remedy than are the simpler varieties. Slipped disk, the most common cause of sciatica, is amenable to surgical treatment. On the other hand when faulty posture, strain, or fatigue are responsible, a long series of procedures may be required to change existing habits and strengthen the parts. These measures are time consuming, boring, and tiresome but there is no other way to accomplish the end result. Most victims become discouraged and, so far as they are concerned, treatment is worse than the disease.

Nevertheless, these simple exercises and preliminary measures are not that difficult. Good posture is worth its weight in gold. It helps not only the back but improves the workings of the abdominal organs and the heart and pays dividends in appearance. Furthermore, by concentrating on a few maneuvers, an erect carriage soon becomes part of daily living. When standing or walking, the head should be kept up and the shoulders back. An attempt must be made to form a crease across the upper abdomen by holding the chest up and forward and elevating the front of the pelvis. The toes should be pointed straight ahead and most of the weight taken off the heels. A good bed is important; the mattress ought to be firm enough to support the lower trunk and back. In addition, boards or a large piece of plywood placed longitudinally between the mattress and the springs will prevent sagging. Weight reduction is of value for the obese. Meanwhile the bay window may be tucked in with an abdominal binder.

Now and then backache is aggravated by high heels and until sensible shoes are worn distress will continue. The best footgear is the Oxford type shoe with a broad rubber heel and a straight last. Strain is avoided by not lifting heavy loads without first squatting. It also is advisable not to bend backward or forward with the knees straight. Standing too long creates unnecessary strain, more so while shopping or in a swaying bus or train.

These main principles of back hygiene are easy to follow; but to make treatment complete, it may be wise to strengthen thru exercise the muscles of the back, abdomen, buttocks, and thighs. This usually is recommended after acute pain has subsided and the individual is ready to resume work. Abdominal muscles are strengthened by lying flat on the back with the knees flexed and raising and lowering the head and chest. As an alternate, the heels are raised off the floor with the legs extended. The muscles of the pelvis and gluteal region get a workout by lying on the floor with the knees flexed and raising the buttocks; then shifting from side to side, being careful to keep the lumbar spine flat. A worthwhile exercise for the muscles of the back is first to lie down and then flex and bring up the knees to the chest where they are held securely with the arms. There are many others, some of which follow the pattern of ordinary setting up exercises.

Corsets, belts, and braces are reserved for those who for some reason cannot correct posture or improve muscle tone. This is logical because these auxiliaries at best are only temporary aids and tend to weaken the affected muscles. They do, however, keep the spine in good alignment, thereby minimizing strain on the weakened parts.

CLOSED WINDOWS

D. J. writes: Do you think that sleeping in a room without an open window is unhealthy?

REPLY

No, because bedrooms are not airtight and sufficient oxygen enters through the many cracks and crevices in and about the windows and doors. But whether the windows should be open or closed depends upon the individual. I for one sleep better when the room is cool and the air fresh.

ELEVATING THE FEET

H. H. F. writes: Is it harmful or beneficial, when resting in bed, to keep the feet raised about a foot?

REPLY

Neither harmful nor beneficial for those in good health. But when the legs are puffy because of varicose veins or phlebitis, elevating the feet while resting will be helpful. On the other hand, this posture might prove harmful when the arterial circulation is poor.

SLIMMING DIET AND VITAMINS

Mrs. A. writes: Should a person on an 800 calorie diet take vitamin supplements?

REPLY

Supplements usually are advised because most 800 calorie diets are incompelte. The only objection to the use of vitamins is that they may improve appetite and make it harder for the would-be reducer to hew to the line.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Speaker Martin Asks Ike To Keep Him Informed On Job Appointments; Colleagues Crack Down On Michigan Congressman Clare Hoffman

WASHINGTON — Speaker Joe Martin is the easiest man in Congress to get along with, but he also has certain ideas on how job appointments should be handled. They are not radical ideas, and in a half-serious, half-joking way he expressed his views to the highest Republican in the land—Dwight D. Eisenhower.

At a Monday-morning White House conference, Joe reminded the President that it was customary to let congressmen and senator know in advance before a job was to be filled in their state so they could get credit for helping make it. The speaker, however, didn't come out with this directly. He backed into it by asking:

"Is it the policy of this administration to notify members of Congress when appointments are about to be made in their districts?"

President Eisenhowere replied that it was.

"Well, does that policy include members of our own party?"

There was a twinkle in the speaker's eye, but Ike couldn't quite tell what was brewing behind the twinkle. He nodded in the affirmative.

"Does that also apply to the speaker of the House?" pursued the speaker.

"Yes," replied the President.

"Well, there were four appointments in my district last week," concluded the speaker, "and I had to read about them in the newspapers. Do I have to subscribe to every paper in my district?"

Eisenhower turned to Assistant President Sherman Adams and, somewhat irritated, told him to tighten up appointment-liaison with Republicans in Congress.

Congressman From Allegan

Congressman Clare Hoffman of Allegan, Mich, now 77 years old, is one of the stormiest Republicans on Capitol Hill. His acid remarks are shot at Republicans as well as Democrats, and he is just as likely to tangle with his own GOP leadership as anyone else.

Having reported on the tempestuous activities of the Michigan solon over the years, I once offered him a chance to even up the score and invited him to write a guest column while I was on vacation. He accepted with alacrity and proceeded to take me to the cleaners in a column which was duly published. Among his mildest epithets were "deceiver of the people" . . . "pretends to give exclusive information which has already appeared" . . . "giver off of effluvium colloguially known as stink."

In view of the above, I should not have been surprised when at 9:50 the other morning I was handed a subpoena ordering me to appear at 10 a. m. before Congressman Hoffman's special committee investigating undue influence regarding small business.

I had got the congressman's district in Michigan mixed up and he was fit to be tied. This was an error, which I shouldn't have made and for which I apologized. The congressman comes from Allegan, a town listed by the Encyclopaedia Britannica as having 4,526 population, not far from the east bank of Lake Michigan and about midway between Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids. I shall try to keep this straight in the future.

Anyway, the fuss over the congressman's district pretty well obscured the basic point of the story—namely, whether the Air Force was wrong, as Hoffman contended, in not awarding a big contract to a very small Michigan firm not equipped to handle it.

Crackdown On Clare

Having made a mistake about the geographic location of the congressman's district, I did not object to being hauled on the carpet by the gentleman from Allegan. However, some other members of his committee did, among them Congressman Charles Brownson of Indianapolis, a Republican, and Frank Karsten of St. Louis, a Democrat. They objected, among other things, to having sudden subpoenas issued without other members of the committee knowing it and setting up special subcommittees to pry into anything the congresman from Allegan wanted to poke his nose in, without a vote by other members.

Later, Speaker Joe Martin took objection to this too and bluntly told Hoffman to call off his extracurricular activities.

What aroused Martin was two things. First, he feared that Hoffman's idea of hauling in newsmen whom he didn't like might set a precedent for other comimttee chairmen to subpoena anyone who wrote a story Congress didn't like. The speaker feared an atmosphere whereby no newsman would dare criticize Congress.

Second, Joe heard that the congressman from Allegan had gone off on an amazing tangent and planned to investigate CIO influence in a Democratic convention in Michigan back in 1950. This is a long way from probing federal spending. And when the speaker heard of this, he, together with GOP Leader Charlie Halleck of Indiana, decided it was time to act.

The congresman from Allegan was told that he would go whistling for money to carry out his unauthorized investigations, if he didn't stop them.

Meantime, Democratic Congressmen John McCormack of Massachusetts, William Dawson of Illinois, and Karsten of Missouri demanded a showdown on why Hoffman was wasting the cimmittee's time by an unauthorized investigation of something that happened in the Democratic party in Michigan three years ago.

When the showdown meeting started, a majority of the committee, including most GOP members were all set to pass a resolution curbing Chairman Hoffman's investigative powers. However, rather than suffer a reprimand—there were news reporters prsent — the Michigan politico ate crow and promised not to step out of line in the future.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Sour Aftermath

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower's troubles with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy have ended for the time being, with the overwhelming confirmation of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow. But they are likely to start rather soon again, if the Wisconsin senator's statements of his own intentions are at all trustworthy.

At the height of the recent storm, McCarthy admitted to one of the ablest Washington reporters that he would be heavily defeated on the Bohlen issue, but added bluntly, "You wait, we're gonna get Dulles's head."

In other words, McCarthy means to shoot another secretary of State out from under another President. Having made his own reputation by blackening the name of Dean G. Acheson, he intends to go forward to new triumphs by attacking John Foster Dulles. McCarthy will no doubt deny this intention, and the remark which revealed it. Yet the remark is accurately quoted. It clearly implies that McCarthy will play the part towards Eisenhower that Huey Long played towards Franklin Roosevelt, before the assassin's bullet cut short Long's career.

Closer Co-Ordination Planned

The President's response to McCarthy's challenge meanwhile remains somewhat doubtful. The White House staff has been very free with descriptions of the anger to which Eisenhower was aroused by McCarthy's recent onslaught against Bohlen and Dulles. Yet the President's anger has not prevented him from making something very like a commitment, which may well embarrass him deeply in the future.

Sen. Robert A. Taft and Sen. William Knowland loyally and admirably bore the brunt of the Bohlen row in the Senate. But they did not enjoy doing so, and they are reported, on undoubted authority, to have complained to the President. The President is stated, on the same authority, to have promised the Senate leaders to avoid making any further requests that are likely to divide the Republican party in Congress.

There is to be even closer co-ordination with the congressional leadership, to make sure that nothing like the Bohlen row happens again. Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, the White House liaison officer at the Capitol, has even circulated this news through the lobbies.

On the surface, this makes sense. In fact, however, the President can only buy peace within his party at a shocking price, as long as Sen. McCarthy positively desires to pick a quarrel. McCarthy and the other key members of his group of anti-Eisenhower Republicans are strongly entrenched in the Senate Appropriations Committee, headed by Sen. Styles Bridges. The next stage in the process of "getting Dulles's head" is likely to be a venomous attack on State Department and Foreign Aid appropriations.

Ike Must Choose

Sen. Taft may well advise heavy cuts in these appropriations in order to keep the peace. The President will then have to choose between honoring his semi-commitment to keep the peace at all costs, or maintaining his foreign policy.

If Eisenhower seeks to keep the peace, McCarthy will surely find a way to disclose and emphasize his victory, thus making himself bigger at the President's expense. Nothing less can be expected from the man who has just grabbed the public credit for the State Department's long and laboriously negotiated agreement with the Greeks, to halt Greek flag shipments of contraband goods to Communist China.

In short, the President will lose most of his freedom of action by seeking to appease McCarthy and his little band of followers, and he will not gain in other ways either. Yet the decision to fight McCarthy has "got to wait for the next round," in the phrase of a key man on the White House staff who would have liked the decision to be taken now.

Butter

I do not want to get into a controversy between butter and oleomargarine. I eat butter; I do not eat oleo. It is a matter of taste and therefore is beyond discussion.

But butter has become an outpriced article of food. It is today 89 cents a pound; oleo, artificially dyed yellow to deceive the eye, is 39 cents a pound. To many there is not a sufficient difference in tast and value to justify the difference in price.

At present prices, butter has practically disappeared from the sandwich. Either the bread is served dry or the concoction called mayonnaise is put on the bread. Mayonnaise has a distinctive flavor and is not sufficiently neutral for a sandwich. Personally, I prefer butter; you are entitled to your taste. Some use a confusion called "Russian dressing." It is mayonnaise mixed with ketchup or something else that is red. In Russia, they never heard of it. All this is, of course, a matter of taste; I would call it a coarsening of the taste buds.

Again, I notice how stingy restaurants, hotels, dining cars and other purveyors of food have become about butter. The spread used to be served profligately, particularly if one ordered such a dish as wheat cakes. Today, the pats are small and carefully measured. At present prices, butter is priced out of the market. Those who still demand price supports may see the day when the only effective customer for butter will be the government, purchasing, with the taxpayers' money, a commodity that is not even being used for axle-grease—a phrase that is not in the vocabulary of the present generation.

The fact that the sales of butter and oleo are about equal in the United States should teach the farmer that whereas he can put political pressure on government to get price support for his product, with huge government purchases, he can out-price his product until he loses his normal market and becomes wholly dependent upon a political market.

For instance, in the United States, in 1934, the per capita consumption of butter was 18.2 pounds. Compare that figure with the present situation:

		PER CAPITA Butter	Oleo
1950		10.6	6.0
1951		9.5	6.5
1952		8.8	7.8
1953	estimate	8.6	8.3

The consumption of oleo means that the dairy farmer is stuck with butter fat. He cannot hope that the price of liquid milk will rise continuously to offset the loss of the butter market. Now comes the story from the Middle West that an ice cream has come on the market, concocted of soya beans, dried milk, and some other ingredients, that tastes like ice cream, looks like ice cream but is not ice cream. I am told that this new product is cheaper than ice cream and wherever introduced has found a satisfactory market.

Therefore, it is to be assumed that this will be another item to add to the woes of the American farmer.

Also, if the tariff policies of the Eisenhower administration move in the direction of Henry Ford II's free trade concepts, we shall be importing increasing quantities of European cheese. I recently attended an excellent dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria where a wide assortment of American-made cheeses was served. I tasted perhaps half a dozen of these cheeses and found them of excellent flavor and texture and comparable to some of the better European cheeses.

A large cheese industry could develop in the United States, but American manufacturers of this product could never hope to compete without some protection. The American cheese would be outpriced.

This is one of the most important social problems in the United States. It is impossible for any country long to produce commodities for the sole purpose of destroying them, while paying the producer a subsidy. It demoralizes the producer as a human being, apart from placing upon the country the burden of waste. Such a policy, continued over generations, would reduce the American farmer to the condition of a peasant and nullify our philosophy of a classless society.

The farm problem requires a new approach.

Beating The Deadline

Motorists who waited until the last day to purchase their new Maryland automobile license plates kept Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat and assistants busy at the Court House all day Tuesday. Pictured above are some of the last-minute license purchasers lined up at Treat's office to make their purchases. Sale yesterday of 960 plates brought to 14,780 the number sold at the local office since February 24. That was almost 600 above the total up to the same time last year. The single new plate had to be attached by midnight last night. Today, Treat is now selling license plates for privately-owned trucks.

Mercy Slayer Of Wife, Diabetic, Is Convicted

DETROIT, April 1. (AP) — A jury last night convicted William R. Jones, 62, of second degree murder in the mercy slaying of his invalid wife Barbara, 62.

The jurors deliberated 9½ hours.

Jones admitted electrocuting his wife by wrapping an exposed lamp cord around her wrist as she sat in a water-filled bathtub last December and then switching on the electricity.

He tried vainly afterwards to take his own life. He told police that he and his wife had attempted suicide together on a previous occasion.

Mrs. Jones, a chronic diabetic, had lost both legs in amputations.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

It was a great privilege last week to be among the group of congressmen invited to the White House for breakfast with President Eisenhower.

I have a souvenir of the occasion —a cigar was given to each of us by Mr. Eisenhower, and the band around it bears his picture. I would like to make it available to a good charitable organization somewhere in the Sixth District of Maryland, to raise funds by auctioning it off.

The President served a big breakfast — grapefruit, cereal, scrambled eggs, sausage, muffins and coffee. A most gracious and hospitable host, he took us on a tour of his home.

His trophy room was most interesting. In glass cases are all his most cherished mementos, including decorations by almost every government in the world. Among his treasures is a sword given him by the king of Saudi Arabia, its scabbard covered with jewels including a diamond as big as a quarter.

Mr. Eisenhower told us that when the king gave him the sword he made no mention of the costly jewels, but said the most valuable part of it was the steel in its blade. It had been in possession of the king's family for centuries.

Frederick County's application for funds for current school expenses has been approved by the U. S. Office of Education, I have been notified. The money will come from the amount set aside in the appropriations bill recently approved by Congress and the President.

Those of us who were instrumental in securing approval of these funds are pleased that part of them will be put to such good use in a crowded area.

Along the Capitol corridors: Debate has been going on, on the House floor and off, on the "tidelands" bill. The legislation approved by our Judiciary Committee provides for states to hold title to land within three miles of their shores. Beyond that limit the U. S. would own the land beneath the seas, but states could tax the oil companies which might be working out that far.

Next Wednesday I'll report on my work to date at the Rotary Club's luncheon in Frederick... I'm checking complaints from Montgomery Countians about road damage and noise by the anti-aircraft troops and equipment stationed near residential areas... It was a great pleasure to be the guest the other evening of Bryson Rash on his WMAL-TV news program in Washington.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—If you have wondered—and I know you have—what becomes of a Potato Queen of America who comes to New York City from Maine to seek her fame and fortune, I am today in the enviable position of being able to tell you.

The cold truth is that after about two and a half years of struggling to get ahead in show business here, of fighting off wolves and so on, the Potato Queen still is far from an unqualified success. She has just about made up her mind—in a calm and unembittered way—that New York is for the birds.

Her name is Alice Christine Paul and in addition to having been Potato Queen of 1951, she has been Queen of Perfect Posture, Atomic Queen, Queen of Amity and "a couple of other queens; I forget what for."

She also has been, successively, blond, brunet and redhaired (she's red now), which, as far as I know, puts her one up on Joey Adams' wife, Cindy Heller, who, as Miss Manischewitz Wine of 1949, has been only blond and brunet. Miss Paul also has been a secretary for a Maine Central railroad executive and there must be days, around now, when she wishes she was again.

A pretty girl with an almost unique architecture, Alice in the last couple of years has done television, modeled bathing suits and lingerie, worked as a disc jockey, done walk-on bits in movies shot in New York and entertained at weekend club dates with an act she has whipped up herself and which she does under the name of Mimi Maiselle, although she is thinking of using the name Alice Desiree Paul. Or maybe "Kitten." Hasn't made up her mind.

"You know, when I first came to this town," she told me, "I used to walk up Broadway and look at the lights and be thrilled to pieces. Now—now I can't even stand it on Broadway. I'm too frustrated. When I look up and see other names in lights, I get mad. Mine ought to be there."

A tolerant soul, Alice also has been confused by New York men. She thinks that, amoroulsy, they're not much different from Maine men—"it just takes Maine men longer to wolf whistle at you"—but their professional advice bothers her.

"The ones whose advice I feel is good," she said, "tell me 'Get out of show business; a nice girl like you shouldn't be doing this.' The ones who can't do me any good all tell me, 'You're sensational. I can do plenty for a girlie like you.'"

Alice lives with friends in midtown Manhattan. I asked her if she didn't want to get married and raise a family. "What I really want is a Hollywood contract," she said. "That's my ambition. I'd like to meet somebody like Darryl Zanuck and get to California. After that I can think about marriage and a family."

Alice has taken to smoking a pipe lately, partly to attract attention, like Anne Baxter (or like Betty Kean who uses a cigar in her night club act), and partly to help publicize a new Susan Hayward movie in which Sue smokes a pipe.

Her immediate aim is to take her act into an East Side supper club so that professional newspaper critics can look at it "and say whether it's terrific or no good."

"I don't sing songs," Alice explained, "instead, I talk them. For instance, I do "Old Black Magic" in black tights and net stockings with a black stole compietely over my face. When I read a line where I talk about eyes, I drop the stole from my eyes kind of provocatively, and so on."

Last Easter, Miss Paul caused some comment when she wore a live parakeet in her hat during the Fifth Avenue Easter parade, arousing the ASPCA to arms. Other women just stared. I asked her about New York women, incidentally, and she said she didn't like them much because they're too competitive; all trying to out-do each other.

However, that's what the Potato Queen of 1951 has been up to lately. If the Indians want to buy back Manhattan from her, she will listen to any reasonable offer.

John Adams, who died at 80, lived longer than any other man who has been President of the United States.

Alice lives with friends in midtown Manhattan. I asked her if she didn't want to get married and raise a family. "What I really want is a Hollywood contract," she said. "That's my ambition. I'd like to meet somebody like Darryl Zanuck and get to California. After that I can think about marriage and a family."

Alice has taken to smoking a pipe lately, partly to attract attention, like Anne Baxter (or like Betty Kean who uses a cigar in her night club act), and partly to help publicize a new Susan Hayward movie in which Sue smokes a pipe.

Her immediate aim is to take her act into an East Side supper club so that professional newspaper critics can look at it "and say whether it's terrific or no good."

"I don't sing songs," Alice explained, "instead, I talk them. For instance, I do "Old Black Magic" in black tights and net stockings with a black stole compietely over my face. When I read a line where I talk about eyes, I drop the stole from my eyes kind of provocatively, and so on."

Last Easter, Miss Paul caused some comment when she wore a live parakeet in her hat during the Fifth Avenue Easter parade, arousing the ASPCA to arms. Other women just stared. I asked her about New York women, incidentally, and she said she didn't like them much because they're too competitive; all trying to out-do each other.

However, that's what the Potato Queen of 1951 has been up to lately. If the Indians want to buy back Manhattan from her, she will listen to any reasonable offer.

John Adams, who died at 80, lived longer than any other man who has been President of the United States.

A Ninth Grade choir of 17 voices will furnish choral Easter music, directed by Miss Mary M. Robb, and various members of that group will also present solos.

The school orchestra will be featured in two selections and will also furnish the accompaniment for the finale, "Christ The Lord Is Risen Today." A vocal duet will be presented by Norwod Edmondson and David Hurt.

The Eighth Grade has prepared art work, consisting of a bulletin board and stained-glass window effects, for the program.

Easter Sunrise Service Planned

The Easter Sunrise Service Committee of the Cumberland Ministerial Association has completed plans for a program at 6:30 p. m. Sunday in the auditorium of Fort Hill High School.

The complete program will be released as soon as a schedule of bus service is prepared by Ralph Lewis, program chairman of Central YMCA and a member of the committee.

Drive Launched By Police On Expired Licenses Tags

State and city police had to look sharper yesterday to spot license tag violators as the single black and orange tags for 1954 became a must on automobiles.

In launching a drive against motorists using expired plates, authorities said drivers without new tags are liable to a fine of from $1 to $100, up to a year in jail or both. The deadline was Tuesday midnight.

Meanwhile, Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat said tag sales at his office in the Court House reached a total of 14,700 as compared with approximately 14,000 last year. Some 1,300 plates are still available.

A small waiting line Tuesday, when 957 auto tags were sold, was handled in five minutes. There was no one in the office at quitting time but Treat remained on duty until 8 p. m. to accommodate six "stragglers."

License sales hit a peak Monday when 978 plates were sold. Thirty-two were issued yesterday morning.

The 1953 black and white plates were distributed for both the front and back of Maryland cars. This year's plate is for the rear only, making the spotting of violators more difficult.

Automobile owners began using new tags March 1 instead of the former date, March 15.

Applications for commercial tags were mailed out today. The deadline is April 30.

Ban On Parking Voted By Firemen

Members of the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company, at a meeting earlier in the week, voted a new regulation prohibiting the parking of cars in front of the fire hall.

A number of members, residents of the community and persons attending social affairs at the fire hall have disregarded the possibility of fire calls by parking their cars in front of the truck entrance.

The cooperation of all persons who have occasion to park in the vicinity of the fire hall has been asked, and a committee named to enforce the regulation.

Successor Is Sought For Rev. E. W. Gearhart

No successor has been named for the Rev. E. W. Gearhart, pastor of First Christian Church, who has resigned to accept a pastorate at Moxham Christian Church, Johnstown, Pa.

A pulpit committee, headed by Mrs. Lester Mauk, has been appointed to seek a replacement and contacted a number of prospects.

Rev. Mr. Gearhart will give his first sermon at the Johnstown Church on May 3.

Hawaiian Islands Headed For Star Billing

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Fifty-five years ago the independent Republic of Hawaii ceased to exist. Of its own free will, it turned over its sovereignty to the United States.

President Sanford B. Dole stepped down and the islands discovered by Capt. James Cook in 1788 became part of the American Republic.

With this change in 1898 came a promise from the new government that Hawaii would be accepted as a full partner in the American Union.

This year, with the blessing of President Eisenhower and a Republican Congress, America's Pacific outpost is expected to become the 49th state.

Hawaiians feel statehood is long overdue. Sixteen times the islands, which became a territory in 1900, have petitioned Congress for admission to the Union. Twice, in recent years, the House took the necessary steps and each time the Senate proved a stumbling block.

However, this year the obstacles have apparently been removed. There is every assurance that before another six months have passed, possibly sooner, Congress will have voted, and the President will have signed, a resolution granting statehood to the Pacific isles.

Hawaii is like a bride prepared for a wedding long overdue. The trousseau has long since been prepared. In 1940, the Hawaiians voted overwhelmingly in a plebiscite for statehood. In 1949, the territorial legislature called a constitutional convention.

In 1950, the convention drafted a state constitution and the people ratified the document the same year by a vote of 82,000 to 27,000.

The new state, the first to be admitted to the Union since Arizona and New Mexico in 1912, will have these unusual characteristics:

1—It will be the first non-contiguous state, being separated from Continental United States by 2,000 miles of water.

2—It will be the first state where people of Japanese ancestry make up the greatest percentage of the residents. The Cencus Bureau estimated in 1951 that they compose 36.7 per cent of the island population.

3—Four-fifths of the population of 499,794 are American citizens.

Under the plan as outlined by President Eisenhower in his message on the state of the union, the Hawaiians will hold their first state election in 1954, when they will elect a governor, members of the legislature, two United States senators, and two United States representatives.

If Hawaii continues to vote Republican, as she has for many years, one of the new senators will probably be Joseph R. Farrington, Honolulu publisher and now the territory's sole representative in Congress. Farrington is a non-voting delegate. The other may well be Samuel W. King Sr., newly-appointed governor and a former delegate.

The House has already approved statehood for Hawaii by a vote of 274 to 138. In the upper chamber, Senator Hugh Butler (R), Nebraska, chairman of the interior and insular affairs committee, has promised to expedite the measure to the Senate floor, where passage seems very likely.

The Nebraska Republican was formerly a leading opponent of Hawaiian statehood and was instrumental in blocking favorable action in the past. He has now promised to vote for the bill.

The other major obstacle in the Senate also appears to be vanishing. That was the threat of a filibuster by southern Democrats. There is every likelihood now that Hawaii will get a sizable vote of support from below the Mason-Dixon line.

The Hawaiian senators and representatives elected in 1954 would take their seats when the 84th Congress convenes in January, 1955.

The American flag would be redesigned to make room for the new state. The general expectation is that there would be seven rows of seven stars each in the blue field, in place of the present arrangement of six rows with eight stars.

Hawaii, world's most isolated important land area, was settled thousands of years ago by the Polynesians. New England missionaries arrived in the islands in 1820. A revolution overthrew Queen Liliukalani in 1893 and set up a provisional government. In 1894, Hawaii became a republic. In 1898, it was annexed by the United States and in 1900 it became a territory.

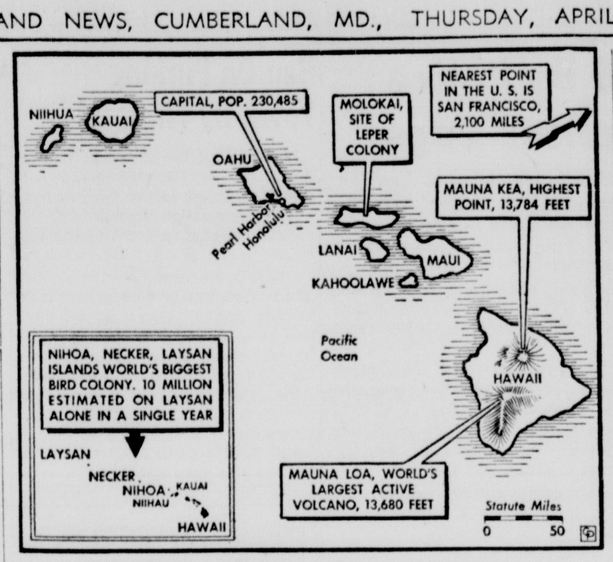
Here is the racial division of the population: Japanese, 36.7 per cent; Caucasian, 22.8 per cent; Hawaiian and part-Hawaiian, 17.6 per cent; Filipino, 12 per cent; Chinese, 6.6 per cent; other races, 4.3 per cent.

Hawaii is America's greatest melting pot. Here the varied races live in harmony, free of racial prejudice and discrimination. In World War II, the Japanese-American 100th Infantry Battalion and the 442nd Combat Team set an enviable record.

Hawaiians also have an impressive fighting record in Korea.

The Hawaiian language consists of about 20,000 words. They are formed by combinations of 40 syllables. The Hawaiian alphabet has only 12 letters, h, k, l, m, n, p and w, plus the vowels, a, e, i, o, u.

Sugar, not pineapples, is Hawaii's biggest industry, at $130 million a year. Pineapples run $100 million, then come livestock, fishing and the tourist trade.



Hawaii has 6,435 square miles and 775 miles of coastline. Of its 20 islands, nine are inhabited.

With this change in 1898 came a promise from the new government that Hawaii would be accepted as a full partner in the American Union.

This year, with the blessing of President Eisenhower and a Republican Congress, America's Pacific outpost is expected to become the 49th state.

Hawaiians feel statehood is long overdue. Sixteen times the islands, which became a territory in 1900, have petitioned Congress for admission to the Union. Twice, in recent years, the House took the necessary steps and each time the Senate proved a stumbling block.

However, this year the obstacles have apparently been removed. There is every assurance that before another six months have passed, possibly sooner, Congress will have voted, and the President will have signed, a resolution granting statehood to the Pacific isles.

Hawaii is like a bride prepared for a wedding long overdue. The trousseau has long since been prepared. In 1940, the Hawaiians voted overwhelmingly in a plebiscite for statehood. In 1949, the territorial legislature called a constitutional convention.

In 1950, the convention drafted a state constitution and the people ratified the document the same year by a vote of 82,000 to 27,000.

The new state, the first to be admitted to the Union since Arizona and New Mexico in 1912, will have these unusual characteristics:

1—It will be the first non-contiguous state, being separated from Continental United States by 2,000 miles of water.

2—It will be the first state where people of Japanese ancestry make up the greatest percentage of the residents. The Cencus Bureau estimated in 1951 that they compose 36.7 per cent of the island population.

3—Four-fifths of the population of 499,794 are American citizens.

Under the plan as outlined by President Eisenhower in his message on the state of the union, the Hawaiians will hold their first state election in 1954, when they will elect a governor, members of the legislature, two United States senators, and two United States representatives.

If Hawaii continues to vote Republican, as she has for many years, one of the new senators will probably be Joseph R. Farrington, Honolulu publisher and now the territory's sole representative in Congress. Farrington is a non-voting delegate. The other may well be Samuel W. King Sr., newly-appointed governor and a former delegate.

The House has already approved statehood for Hawaii by a vote of 274 to 138. In the upper chamber, Senator Hugh Butler (R), Nebraska, chairman of the interior and insular affairs committee, has promised to expedite the measure to the Senate floor, where passage seems very likely.

The Nebraska Republican was formerly a leading opponent of Hawaiian statehood and was instrumental in blocking favorable action in the past. He has now promised to vote for the bill.

The other major obstacle in the Senate also appears to be vanishing. That was the threat of a filibuster by southern Democrats. There is every likelihood now that Hawaii will get a sizable vote of support from below the Mason-Dixon line.

The Hawaiian senators and representatives elected in 1954 would take their seats when the 84th Congress convenes in January, 1955.

The American flag would be redesigned to make room for the new state. The general expectation is that there would be seven rows of seven stars each in the blue field, in place of the present arrangement of six rows with eight stars.

Hawaii, world's most isolated important land area, was settled thousands of years ago by the Polynesians. New England missionaries arrived in the islands in 1820. A revolution overthrew Queen Liliukalani in 1893 and set up a provisional government. In 1894, Hawaii became a republic. In 1898, it was annexed by the United States and in 1900 it became a territory.

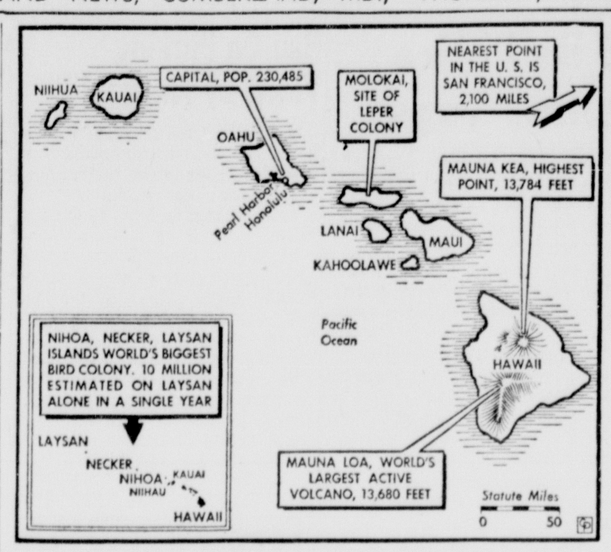
Here is the racial division of the population: Japanese, 36.7 per cent; Caucasian, 22.8 per cent; Hawaiian and part-Hawaiian, 17.6 per cent; Filipino, 12 per cent; Chinese, 6.6 per cent; other races, 4.3 per cent.

Hawaii is America's greatest melting pot. Here the varied races live in harmony, free of racial prejudice and discrimination. In World War II, the Japanese-American 100th Infantry Battalion and the 442nd Combat Team set an enviable record.

Hawaiians also have an impressive fighting record in Korea.

The Hawaiian language consists of about 20,000 words. They are formed by combinations of 40 syllables. The Hawaiian alphabet has only 12 letters, h, k, l, m, n, p and w, plus the vowels, a, e, i, o, u.

Sugar, not pineapples, is Hawaii's biggest industry, at $130 million a year. Pineapples run $100 million, then come livestock, fishing and the tourist trade.



Hawaii has 6,435 square miles and 775 miles of coastline. Of its 20 islands, nine are inhabited.

Lattimore Trial Date Moved Back

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP) — The perjury trial of Owen Lattimore was postponed yesterday until October—with this warning from Government Prosecutor Leo A. Rover:

"We're not going to persecute him, but he will be prosecuted with all the vigor that Almighty God gave me."

Lattimore is a Johns Hopkins professor who is accused of lying seven times to a Senate Internal Security subcommittee. Originally he had been scheduled to go on trial May 11.

His lawyers asked for a postponement until January, and also that the trial be held somewhere outside Washington.

Rover said he had no objection to a delay since the case is "a very difficult one." He suggested mid-October.

U. S. District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl agreed to an October trial, and said he'd set the exact date later. But he refused to grant a change of venue, saying:

"He can have just as fair a trial here as he can in any other jurisdiction."

The Internal Security subcommittee was interested in finding out whether Communists influenced this country's Far Eastern policies.

One of the charges against Lattimore, who specialized in Eastern affairs, is that he gave false evidence when he said he was never a sympathizer or promoter of Communist interests.

Marine Is Wounded In Korean Battle

Pfc. James E. Layton, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Layton, 7 Clement Street, has been wounded in action in Korea.

Before enlisting in the Marine Corps in January, 1951, Pfc. Layton attended Fort Hill High School. He received training at Parris Island, S. C., and was stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C. before going overseas.

A member of the Fifth Regiment, First Marine Division, Pfc. Layton was home on furlough last Christmas. He returned to the Far East in January and at present is aboard a hospital ship in Korean waters.

A casualty list released yesterday by the Department of Defense did not disclose the extent of his wounds.

The speed of the duck hawk is estimated at 170 miles an hour.

County Agent Offers Fruit Growers Advice

County Agent Ralph R. McHenry this week is sending a bulletin concerning apple sprays for scab and aphids to some 50 fruit growers in Allegany County.

His bulletin is a reminder that apple scab is controlled in the early pre-blossom sprays as well as in petal-fall and first cover. Apple scab spores are mature and will be liberated from the old leaves during spring rains. The earlier the infection, the more difficult it will be to produce a scab-free crop.

Boston Club Burns 1,274,216 Useless Baseball Tickets

BOSTON, April 1 (AP)—A dump truck carted away 1,274,216 baseball tickets which would have brought in about two and a half million dollars if they had been sold—and they went up in smoke today at deserted Braves Field.

The tickets were for the home games of the erstwhile Boston Braves this season. Since the club has moved to Milwaukee the ducats were destroyed under the watchful eyes of two Internal Revenue agents.

Phils Edge Yanks, 2-1

CLEARWATER, Fla., April 1 (AP)—Smoky Burgess' tenth inning homer gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 victory over the Yankees today but the New Yorkers were the happiest losers in Florida.

The reason for the high Yankee spirits was Allie Reynolds. The veteran fireballer looked good for the first time this spring. He pitched eight innings and yielded but five hits, including a first inning homer to Richie Ashburn. Burgess' winning blast came off Tommy Gorman.

Phil Starter Curt Simmons held the Yanks to five hits and the unearned run in five innings. He fanned six. Karl Drews blanked the champions with two hits in the last five innings.

New York (A) 000 010 000 0—1 7 3

Bowie To Honor Cherry Princess

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Sally Lee Rush, Maryland's Cherry Blossom princess will be the honored guest at the Bowie Race Track Saturday, the National Cherry Blossom Festival Committee announced today.

She will greet the winning owner and jockey in the winner's circle and award the Cherry Blossom Horseshoe after the running of the $10,000 added Cherry Blossom Stake.

Azalea Opens Today

WILMINGTON, N. C., April 1 (AP)—The $10,000 Azalea Open Golf tournament, last stop on the winter tour for those players not competing in the Augusta Masters next week, opens tomorrow at the Cape Fear Country Club. Four 18-hole rounds will be played daily through Sunday over the 6,652-yard par 72 course.

As You Were

In 1930 LaSalle Institute had what many fans still agree was the best football team in the 25-year history of the sport at the North Centre Street school.

The lad pictured here was captain of that aggregation which won eight games and tied one, scored seven shutout victories and set a local defensive record which still stands, yielding only 12 points.

This lanky schoolboy star could run, pass and punt, was an excellent blocker and a standout as a defensive back. Other members of that classy backfield were Harry "Doc" DeHart, "Peck" O'Neill and Counihan. And what a crew they had up front — Reynolds, Lindsay, McDade, Blough, Cioni, Coulehan and Silvestri.

Wins were scored over Rowlesbarg, Martinsburg, Mt. St. Mary's Prep, Gonzaga High of Washington, St. John's Academy, of Petersburg, Windber, Pa., Keyser and Allegany, and a 6-6 tie was played with Waynesboro High.

In the Thanksgiving Day game for the city title, this halfback scored three of LaSalle's four touchdowns in the 26-0 triumph. He dashed 60 and 70 yards for scores and smashed over from the two-yard mark on another occasion. It marked LaSalle's first win over AHS on the gridiron.

He was the fullback on LaSalle's first football team in 1928 when Art Slocum was coach. "Guzz" Carpenti, Morrissey and Fleckenstein were the other regular backs that year. In 1929 when John J. Long was at the helm this speedy youngster worked with DeHart, Fleckenstein and Chris Kean in the backfield.

It was on Oct. 19,1929 that the player pictured here really started something. He returned the opening kickoff 85 yards for a TD in the tilt in which LaSalle swamped Berkeley Springs, 107-0, a modern scoring record for a scholastic grid game in Cumberland.

During the three years he was on LaSalle teams he played under three different coaches. George "Denny" Shay, the ex-Notre Damer, was mentor of the 1930 undefeated eleven.

This athlete also was a soccer goalie at LaSalle and played on several of the Institute's basketball teams.

Can you recall his name?

Remember David F. "Cake" Coney? His brother Edward, better known as "Pie," was an outstanding bowler for many years. The photo of Dave was taken in 1928 when he was on the LaSalle basketball team.

Boston Club Burns 1,274,216 Useless Baseball Tickets

BOSTON, April 1 (AP)—A dump truck carted away 1,274,216 baseball tickets which would have brought in about two and a half million dollars if they had been sold—and they went up in smoke today at deserted Braves Field.

The tickets were for the home games of the erstwhile Boston Braves this season. Since the club has moved to Milwaukee the ducats were destroyed under the watchful eyes of two Internal Revenue agents.

Phils Edge Yanks, 2-1

CLEARWATER, Fla., April 1 (AP)—Smoky Burgess' tenth inning homer gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 victory over the Yankees today but the New Yorkers were the happiest losers in Florida.

The reason for the high Yankee spirits was Allie Reynolds. The veteran fireballer looked good for the first time this spring. He pitched eight innings and yielded but five hits, including a first inning homer to Richie Ashburn. Burgess' winning blast came off Tommy Gorman.

Phil Starter Curt Simmons held the Yanks to five hits and the unearned run in five innings. He fanned six. Karl Drews blanked the champions with two hits in the last five innings.

As You Were

In 1930 LaSalle Institute had what many fans still agree was the best football team in the 25-year history of the sport at the North Centre Street school.

The lad pictured here was captain of that aggregation which won eight games and tied one, scored seven shutout victories and set a local defensive record which still stands, yielding only 12 points.

This lanky schoolboy star could run, pass and punt, was an excellent blocker and a standout as a defensive back. Other members of that classy backfield were Harry "Doc" DeHart, "Peck" O'Neill and Counihan. And what a crew they had up front — Reynolds, Lindsay, McDade, Blough, Cioni, Coulehan and Silvestri.

Wins were scored over Rowlesburg, Martinsburg, Mt. St. Mary's Prep, Gonzaga High of Washington, St. John's Academy, of Petersburg, Windber, Pa., Keyser and Allegany, and a 6-6 tie was played with Waynesboro High.

In the Thanksgiving Day game for the city title, this halfback scored three of LaSalle's four touchdowns in the 26-0 triumph. He dashed 60 and 70 yards for scores and smashed over from the two-yard mark on another occasion. It marked LaSalle's first win over AHS on the gridiron.

He was the fullback on LaSalle's first football team in 1928 when Art Slocum was coach. "Guzz" Carpenti, Morrissey and Fleckenstein were the other regular backs that year. In 1929 when John J. Long was at the helm this speedy youngster worked with DeHart, Fleckenstein and Chris Kean in the backfield.

It was on Oct. 19,1929 that the player pictured here really started something. He returned the opening kickoff 85 yards for a TD in the tilt in which LaSalle swamped Berkeley Springs, 107-0, a modern scoring record for a scholastic grid game in Cumberland.

During the three years he was on LaSalle teams he played under three different coaches. George "Denny" Shay, the ex-Notre Damer, was mentor of the 1930 undefeated eleven.

This athlete also was a soccer goalie at LaSalle and played on several of the Institute's basketball teams.

Can you recall his name?

Remember David F. "Cake" Conley? His brother Edward, better known as "Pie," was an outstanding bowler for many years. The photo of Dave was taken in 1928 when he was on the LaSalle basketball team.

Market Halts Drop Brought On By Reds' Peace Gestures

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP) — The Stock Market steadied itself today and halted the two-day drop brought on by Communist peace gestures.

In a last-minute effort the list recovered from early lows and managed to post a modest gain at the close.

Heavy selling forced prices back in the two previous sessions. The fall represented the measure of Wall Street fears of a change in the pattern of defense spending that might result from a Korean truce.

The recovery today was by no means unanimous, and most major divisions displayed a generous mixture of gains and losses.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 20 cents and closed at $111.80. In the two previous days the average had declined a total of $3.20.

Today the industrial component of the average was up 30 cents, the railroads up 30 cents, while the utilities declined 10 cents.

Goodrich, which was down 2¾ yesterday, gained 2¼ today at 71¾.

Panhandle Oil was the day's most active issue up 1¼ at 9⅝. It was followed by National Theaters up ⅛ at 7½, American & Foreign Power unchanged at 10⅜, Pacific Western Oil off 2¼ at 44, and RKO Theaters up ¼ at 4¾.

Higher stocks included U. S. Smelting up 4 at 61, Seaboard Railroad 1 at 113, Baltimore & Ohio ¼ at 28, Gulf Oil 1⅛ at 49¾, Johns-Manville 2 at 72, Consolidated Natural Gas 1 at 58, Anaconda Copper ¾ at 40, Homestake Mining ⅝ at 40⅝, Westinghouse Electric ⅞ at 46⅜, Plymouth Oil 1¾ at 33⅝, Republic Steel ¼ at 47¾, and Douglas Aircraft 1 at 64¾.

Market Halts Drop Brought On By Reds' Peace Gestures

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP) — The Stock Market steadied itself today and halted the two-day drop brought on by Communist peace gestures.

In a last-minute effort the list recovered from early lows and managed to post a modest gain at the close.

Heavy selling forced prices back in the two previous sessions. The fall represented the measure of Wall Street fears of a change in the pattern of defense spending that might result from a Korean truce.

The recovery today was by no means unanimous, and most major divisions displayed a generous mixture of gains and losses.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 20 cents and closed at $111.80. In the two previous days the average had declined a total of $3.20.

Today the industrial component of the average was up 30 cents, the railroads up 30 cents, while the utilities declined 10 cents.

Goodrich, which was down 2¾ yesterday, gained 2¼ today at 71¾.

Panhandle Oil was the day's most active issue up 1¼ at 9⅝. It was followed by National Theaters up ⅛ at 7½, American & Foreign Power unchanged at 10⅜, Pacific Western Oil off 2¼ at 44, and RKO Theaters up ¼ at 4¾.

Higher stocks included U. S. Smelting up 4 at 61, Seaboard Railroad 1 at 113, Baltimore & Ohio ¼ at 28, Gulf Oil 1⅛ at 49¾, Johns-Manville 2 at 72, Consolidated Natural Gas 1 at 58, Anaconda Copper ¾ at 40, Homestake Mining ⅝ at 40⅝, Westinghouse Electric ⅞ at 46⅜, Plymouth Oil 1¾ at 33⅝, Republic Steel ¼ at 47¾, and Douglas Aircraft 1 at 64¾.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 1 (INS)—Rosalind Russell's movie, "It Happened in Spain," has been called off because of what's happened in New York. Our girl is the toast of the town in "Wonderful Town."

But the success of the musical isn't the only reason her husband-producer, Freddie Brisson, has decided to postpone the Spanish yarn. Until the dust settles about three-D and which way it's going, the Brissons do not want to rush in where "angels" fear to tread.

After conferring with Floyd Odlum, the "angel" backing Rosalind's independent movies for RKO, Freddie decided on a comedy. "You Can't Judge a Lady," again with Marie Wilson, is Roz's next.

My money says that Bing Crosby and Mona Freeman will not be married in Europe. But I'm equally convinced that Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas will be. They leave Saturday.

One thing for sure — Fernando won't have to worry about being missed on the screen, no matter how long they stay. No actor will have more pictures in circulation.

His picture with Elizabeth Taylor, "The Girl Who Had Everything" comes out in April; "Sangaree," with his lady love, Arlene, is released in May; "Diamond Queen," also with Arlene, is set for June; "Dangerous When Wet," with Esther Williams, comes up in July.

You have to hand it to these modern mothers, including expectant mothers. I've just learned that Singer Mindy Carson is expecting her second baby the first of August, but she'll pull a Lucille Ball and remain on her TV show practically until the stork arrives.

According to her husband and TV producer, Eddie Joy, Mindy will continue to sing—but they'll surround her with other performers, singers and dancers. T'wasn't like this in grandma's day!

They already have a little girl, Jody—so if the stork reads this column, a boy would be welcome.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Chata (Mrs. John) Wayne is officially in St. Joseph's Hospital for "laryngitis" — but her illness is much more serious. She had a very bad night Monday.

Even though Chata has been dating Steve Cochran, I doubt if her condition is being improved by the hot gossip that John has fallen in love again with another charmer of his favorite type, tall, brunette and latin, Pilar Pallette. He met her when he was best man and she was bridesmaid at Grant Withers' marriage to Estelita.

I'll say for John, no man tried harder to keep his marriage together, until the situation with Chata became unbearable.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Rita Hayworth had a quiet dinner at the Bantam Cock with Dick Haymes. This is getting to be a regular twosome.

A big romance in New York is Lynn Baggett, the ex-Mrs. Sam Spiegel, and Billy Rose. Whatever happened to Joyce Mathews?

The Norman Krasna baby is due any hour now. Mrs. Krasna is the widow of Al Jolson.

Sonja Henie and Winnie Gardiner, having dinner at Romanoff's, told me about Sonja's European tour. She opens in Paris May 9 and goes on to London the week before the coronation.

Gloria Swanson, looking like a fashion plate, was with Brandy Brent at the Don Loper cocktail party honoring the Jay Saylors.

Kay Williams Spreckels, who has taken off so much weight, looked extremely pretty in a summer dress.

Don is a delightful host and made the guests so welcome they lingered on, hating to leave.

John Carroll will open at the Chicago Theatre April 10 with his own singing act. He always packs them in.

Ernie Glucksman, TV producer of the Colgate comedy hour, is marrying Judy Martin, former nightclub singer, April 12.

Let them sing of April in Paris — I wouldn't miss an April in New York for anything! That's when the women of this city blossom from lovely to breath-taking in fresh fashions, superlatively inspired suits, posy-topped gay chapeaux.

Now and then as they drift by, you catch a whiff of their new spring fragrance, a bit of bouquet that is as sure a picker-upper for feminine nature as it is a lure for the male's. Every woman should have a new bottle of fragrance in April, one that is as fresh in scent as April herself.

Make yours a delicate floral or fernsy fragrance and you will have caught the mood of spring's bewitchment. The one that best expresses you will be the one that you like best of all.

Three Is Limit

To find that one, go to a perfume counter and explain what you have in mind. Ask for several suggestions. Sample the offerings — but never more than three at a time or your olfactory nerves will become confused and trick you so that you might pass over the one that most pleases your senses.

To test the staying power of the fragrance and its action with your own body chemistry, you will get best results by putting a drop on the inside of your wrist; wait until it dries, then take three or four quick sniffs. Repeat the process with a different scent on the other wrist. Test the third in the crook of your elbow.

Inspired Selection

Which one is for you? The one that gives you a sense of being utterly lovely and charming. It may be gay or romantic, haughtily provocative or hauntingly enchanting — it may be perfume, cologne or toilet water — it may be either luxury or flacon size. As long as it gives your spirits the sort of lift that suffuses your looks and manner with radiance it is exactly right for you.

If you get some sachet in matching fragrance to tuck into your lingerie drawer, you'll augment its effect and contribute infinitely to the feeling of luxurious femininity every time you dress.

As sure as April returns each year, your new fragrance will win you new compliments!

April is the month to perk up personality and spirits with a new, fresh spring fragrance!

Titchenal Replaces Dudley S. DeGroot

ALBUQUERQUE, March 31 (AP)—Robert A. (Bob) Titchenal, 36-year-old native of California, today was appointed head football coach at the University of New Mexico.

He will receive $7,500 a year. Titchenal replaces Dudley S. DeGroot, fired two weeks ago in a dispute with the university administration over sports policies.

Titchenal had played under and coached with DeGroot since 1937 and came to the university here with DeGroot in 1949. He left last year to take an assistant's job at Denver.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 1 (INS)—Rosalind Russell's movie, "It Happened in Spain," has been called off because of what's happened in New York. Our girl is the toast of the town in "Wonderful Town."

But the success of the musical isn't the only reason her husband-producer, Freddie Brisson, has decided to postpone the Spanish yarn. Until the dust settles about three-D and which way it's going, the Brissons do not want to rush in where "angels" fear to tread.

After conferring with Floyd Odlum, the "angel" backing Rosalind's independent movies for RKO, Freddie decided on a comedy. "You Can't Judge a Lady," again with Marie Wilson, is Roz's next.

My money says that Bing Crosby and Mona Freeman will not be married in Europe. But I'm equally convinced that Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas will be. They leave Saturday.

One thing for sure — Fernando won't have to worry about being missed on the screen, no matter how long they stay. No actor will have more pictures in circulation.

His picture with Elizabeth Taylor, "The Girl Who Had Everything" comes out in April; "Sangaree," with his lady love, Arlene, is released in May; "Diamond Queen," also with Arlene, is set for June; "Dangerous When Wet," with Esther Williams, comes up in July.

You have to hand it to these modern mothers, including expectant mothers. I've just learned that Singer Mindy Carson is expecting her second baby the first of August, but she'll pull a Lucille Ball and remain on her TV show practically until the stork arrives.

According to her husband and TV producer, Eddie Joy, Mindy will continue to sing—but they'll surround her with other performers, singers and dancers. T'wasn't like this in grandma's day!

They already have a little girl, Jody—so if the stork reads this column, a boy would be welcome.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Chata (Mrs. John) Wayne is officially in St. Joseph's Hospital for "laryngitis" — but her illness is much more serious. She had a very bad night Monday.

Even though Chata has been dating Steve Cochran, I doubt if her condition is being improved by the hot gossip that John has fallen in love again with another charmer of his favorite type, tall, brunette and latin, Pilar Pallette. He met her when he was best man and she was bridesmaid at Grant Withers' marriage to Estelita.

I'll say for John, no man tried harder to keep his marriage together, until the situation with Chata became unbearable.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Rita Hayworth had a quiet dinner at the Bantam Cock with Dick Haymes. This is getting to be a regular twosome.

A big romance in New York is Lynn Baggett, the ex-Mrs. Sam Spiegel, and Billy Rose. Whatever happened to Joyce Mathews?

The Norman Krasna baby is due any hour now. Mrs. Krasna is the widow of Al Jolson.

Sonja Henie and Winnie Gardiner, having dinner at Romanoff's, told me about Sonja's European tour. She opens in Paris May 9 and goes on to London the week before the coronation.

Gloria Swanson, looking like a fashion plate, was with Brandy Brent at the Don Loper cocktail party honoring the Jay Saylors.

Kay Williams Spreckels, who has taken off so much weight, looked extremely pretty in a summer dress.

Don is a delightful host and made the guests so welcome they lingered on, hating to leave.

John Carroll will open at the Chicago Theatre April 10 with his own singing act. He always packs them in.

Ernie Glucksman, TV producer of the Colgate comedy hour, is marrying Judy Martin, former nightclub singer, April 12.

April is the month to perk up personality and spirits with a new, fresh spring fragrance!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Let them sing of April in Paris — I wouldn't miss an April in New York for anything! That's when the women of this city blossom from lovely to breath-taking in fresh fashions, superlatively inspired suits, posy-topped gay chapeaux.

Now and then as they drift by, you catch a whiff of their new spring fragrance, a bit of bouquet that is as sure a picker-upper for feminine nature as it is a lure for the male's. Every woman should have a new bottle of fragrance in April, one that is as fresh in scent as April herself.

Make yours a delicate floral or fernsy fragrance and you will have caught the mood of spring's bewitchment. The one that best expresses you will be the one that you like best of all.

Three Is Limit

To find that one, go to a perfume counter and explain what you have in mind. Ask for several suggestions. Sample the offerings — but never more than three at a time or your olfactory nerves will become confused and trick you so that you might pass over the one that most pleases your senses.

To test the staying power of the fragrance and its action with your own body chemistry, you will get best results by putting a drop on the inside of your wrist; wait until it dries, then take three or four quick sniffs. Repeat the process with a different scent on the other wrist. Test the third in the crook of your elbow.

Inspired Selection

Which one is for you? The one that gives you a sense of being utterly lovely and charming. It may be gay or romantic, haughtily provocative or hauntingly enchanting — it may be perfume, cologne or toilet water — it may be either luxury or flacon size. As long as it gives your spirits the sort of lift that suffuses your looks and manner with radiance it is exactly right for you.

If you get some sachet in matching fragrance to tuck into your lingerie drawer, you'll augment its effect and contribute infinitely to the feeling of luxurious femininity every time you dress.

As sure as April returns each year, your new fragrance will win you new compliments!

Lt. Gaile W. Busch, Veteran W. Va. Trooper, Promoted

PARSONS, W. Va. — State Police Lt. Gaile W. Busch of Company C at Elkins, well known in Tucker County, has been promoted to captain and transferred to Shinnston.

Capt. Busch, a veteran state trooper with 30 years of experience, spent much of his colorful career as a member of the Thomas detachment.

Tucker Countians remember him for his work in the Loughry case in 1945. That was when officers found 2½-year-old LeRoy Loughry, son of John and Margaret Loughry, chained to a bannister at his home and suffering from malnutrition. The child weighed only 15 pounds.

The Loughry boy was treated at Tucker County Hospital here for several weeks. A few months later, after the family had taken him to Barbour County, he was found beaten to death. His mother was convicted of his slaying.

Busch also played an important role in the 1941 Nunley-Hilton murder case, in which Charles Nunley, 43, of Kempton, was convicted of stabbing James Hilton to death.

In another case which drew considerable interest, Busch caught three brothers who had been robbing a YMCA camp at Horseshoe Run in 1942. Busch arrested the trio in their man-made cave at Drift Run, where they had hidden with their loot for three months. One of the men was wanted on a draft evasion charge.

When he was transferred from Thomas to Elkins, Busch was replaced by Sgt. Joe Horn, then was called back to help lead the manhunt for Mark McCauley, the man who had murdered Horn. McCauley later was hanged in the State Penitentiary at Moundsville.

Lt. Gaile W. Busch, Veteran W. Va. Trooper, Promoted

PARSONS, W. Va. — State Police Lt. Gaile W. Busch of Company C at Elkins, well known in Tucker County, has been promoted to captain and transferred to Shinnston.

Capt. Busch, a veteran state trooper with 30 years of experience, spent much of his colorful career as a member of the Thomas detachment.

Tucker Countians remember him for his work in the Loughry case in 1945. That was when officers found 2½-year-old LeRoy Loughry, son of John and Margaret Loughry, chained to a bannister at his home and suffering from malnutrition. The child weighed only 15 pounds.

The Loughry boy was treated at Tucker County Hospital here for several weeks. A few months later, after the family had taken him to Barbour County, he was found beaten to death. His mother was convicted of his slaying.

Busch also played an important role in the 1941 Nunley-Hilton murder case, in which Charles Nunley, 43, of Kempton, was convicted of stabbing James Hilton to death.

In another case which drew considerable interest, Busch caught three brothers who had been robbing a YMCA camp at Horseshoe Run in 1942. Busch arrested the trio in their man-made cave at Drift Run, where they had hidden with their loot for three months. One of the men was wanted on a draft evasion charge.

When he was transferred from Thomas to Elkins, Busch was replaced by Sgt. Joe Horn, then was called back to help lead the manhunt for Mark McCauley, the man who had murdered Horn. McCauley later was hanged in the State Penitentiary at Moundsville.

German Girl Is Wed To Hendricks GI

PARSONS — Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hoth, Kobristrok, Germany, announce the marriage of their daughter, Charlotte E., to Sgt. Arlie E. Carr, son of Mrs. Kate McDaniel, Hendricks.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized in the parsonage of St. John's Methodist Church, Parsons, Tuesday afternoon by Rev. Robert L. Greynolds, pastor. Isaac McDaniel, brother of the bridegroom, was their only attendant.

The bride wore for her marriage a street length suit of grey and black with matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of red carnations.

Mrs. Carr, a graduate of Cattbus High School and Senftenberg Hospital training school for nurses in Germany, was with the Red Cross during World War II and then joined the Army and worked as a dental assistant until she resigned to come to Hendricks to wed. She arrived on Saturday from Germany.

Sgt. Carr attended Parsons High School until he enlisted in the Army and has been stationed in Germany for seven years. He was recently transferred back to the states.

Daily Bridge Lesson

CLAIM THEM AT FINISH

IN THESE days, when so many people not formerly bridge players are turning to the best of all games after initiation to the joys of cards through canasta, some peculiar ideas have gained limited circulation. One of these is that a claim of 100 or 150 honors must be made before any of them has been played. The Laws make it clear that this is not the case, but plenty of neophytes, keen students of the good but relatively brief books for bridge beginners, lack a copy of the official code. As a consequence some apparently funny but really rather pathetic questions are being sent to bridge columnists.

	♠ 3 ♥ A 10 4 3 2 ♦ A ♣ 9 6 5 4 3 2
♠ 6 ♥ K Q J 6 ♦ K J 5 3 2 ♣ K J 8	N W E S	♠ A Q J 10 ♥ 9 8 7 ♦ Q 9 7 4 ♣ A Q
	♠ K 9 8 7 5 4 2 ♥ 5 ♦ 10 8 6 ♣ 10 7

(Dealer, South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
3 ♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

Just as West was preparing to lead his singleton trump against that pre-empt, East announced possession of 100 honors, which made his partner all the more anxious to open his trump.

"Hold on, don't lead!" South exclaimed to West. "Your partner's announcement of the honors gives you unauthorized information about his hand. So I can call a lead. Lead a diamond!"

Poor East explained that he thought, from the brief digest of the Laws he had read, that honors must be proclaimed before any of them had been played. All present took part in the discussion, and they decided that South, a little more experienced than the others, probably was right.

West went ahead then and led a diamond. The A won it in dummy, the heart A was scored, a heart ruffed, a diamond ruffed with dummy's only trump, and from there the play proceeded in such a way that eventually East had to lead a trump to South. The declarer accordingly lost only three tricks in spades, two in clubs and one in diamonds, being only two down, instead of three as would have been the case if he had not trumped one diamond.

In conclusion, let us point out that honors should never be claimed until the last of them held by the claimant had been played.

	♠ 8 3 2 ♥ 9 8 ♦ K 6 5 2 ♣ 10 8 5 4

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

What is South's right logic to guide his first play when West leads the heart 5 against his 3-No Trumps?

Marriage Licenses Decline In March

A slight decline in the issuance of marriage licenses in March over the same period in 1952 was noted yesterday by Joseph E. Boden, clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court.

In March of this year 206 licenses were issued as compared to 245 last year. The total number issued during the first quarter of 1953 was 580 with 199 in January and 175 in February. During the first quarter in 1952 there were 667 licenses issued with 195 in January and 227 in February.

During the past 15 months, Boden added, marriage licenses were issued to persons from 31 of the 48 states including residents of Washington State, California, Florida and New Hampshire.

Marriage Licenses

George Theodore Porter, Locust Grove, and Ruth Christina Brown, RFD 3, Valley Road.

Richard Cletus Hunt, 205 Wilmont Avenue, Dolores Jean Knight, 120 Polk Street.

Getaway Made By Gypsy Group

A gypsy family seems to have made good its getaway from police of Maryland and West Virginia following a wild auto chase Monday along Route 135 from McCoole to Westernport and across the state line into Piedmont.

The chase occurred after $80 was reported taken from Harry G. Barton while a gypsy woman read the palm of a secretary in the dairy owner's office at Pinto.

District authorities were alerted by State Police but roadblocks were ineffective. Westernport and Piedmont policemen, who were questioning members of the gypsy band about two other cases, saw a 1950 Cadillac go past a camp at McCoole, and notified Trooper Milton Hart, who gave chase.

The powerful car was reported by Hart to have outran him on Route 135 and crossed over the interstate bridge into Piedmont. Maryland authorities said no charges would be filed in the theft since the leader of the gypsy band had reimbursed Barton. However, they said, several motor vehicle charges are awaiting the driver.

Trooper Hart said the gypsy leader was ordered to get his caravan together and move on as soon as possible.

Celanese Wage Talks Continue

Negotiators for Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), and the Celanese Corporation of America met yesterday to discuss the local's request for a 15 cent wage increase at the Amcelle plant.

Another conference will be arranged, but the date has not been set.

Heading the union delegation were Boyd E. Payton, Lynchburg, Va., Upper South director; Neil Toey, president; Irvin Lewis, vice president, Melvin Harris, business manager, and 13 shop chairmen of Local 1874.

Tract Of Land Brings $12,000

The sale of land valued at about $12,000 was recorded in a deed yesterday in the office of the clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Smith sold to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker Lots 11, 12 and 13 lying on the easterly side of Park Avenue in Electric Mill Addition, LaVale.

the original House bill, introduced by request of the commissioners.

The bill now reads that two commissioners will get $1,800 annually and the board president, $2,000. The measure would have given the commissioners $2,100 annually, and the board president, $2,400. They all now receive $1,500 annually.

Also amended by the delegates was the pay raise bill for the clerk to Allegany County commissioners. The original bill called for a raise from $2,400 yearly to $3,000. The amendments lower it to $2,700 annually.

Another bill that had wage increases sliced was the one that would have given the three members of the Board of Election Supervisors $1,200 each annually instead of their current $900. The delegates lowered the annual wage to $1,080.

Two bills did not have unanimous approval, although they were reported out into the House.

Not all of the delegates were in favor of a four year term for the Mayor and Council, but Del. See said it was reported out favorably after a majority backed this bill.

CAP Pilots Wait For Call To Resume Search For Plane

Local Civil Air Patrol pilots last night remained on the alert for a call to resume the search for a missing Air Force plane and pilot believed to be down in the Elkins, W.Va., area.

The search was suspended yesterday after four days of bad weather and fruitless combing of the rugged mountain region where Capt. Richard Ratzburg of Oshkosh, Wis., is believed to have crashed or been forced down.

Major Richard Stanton, operations officer of the 49th Air Rescue Squadron, said the search would be resumed only if orders to that effect were received from "higher authority."

Emmanuel Methodist Schedules Services

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—I fell off the sled at the first turn, reading the digested accounts of Einstein's new theory. The reporters who manfully sat down to explain the new set of equations lost me shortly after their by-lines.

One comforting fact was unearthed late in their stories, however. Seems that Einstein believes he has "synthesized the fields of gravity and electromagnetism," but can't prove it because he can't fully solve his own equations—and neither Remington Rand nor IBM has come up with a mechanical brain that can solve them either.

For those who exist in the rare air of advanced mathematics, this must be as tantalizing as a light sleeper waiting for that other shoe, upstairs, to drop.

Mr. Charles Einstein, of our sports department, was approached in this emergency. Charles has been in charge of assaying the merit of Prof. Einstein's findings for some time. He is one who will not fret over this latest crop of murky equations. Charles took one look at the fantastically bizarre group of hieroglyphics which is the blackboard version of the new theory, shook his head, and said:

"Wrong."

Russia's new peaceful overtures, naturally suspected by the free world, could be based on any of a hundred reasons. One, perhaps, is this:

Gen. Curt LeMay's Strategic Air Command, carriers of our enormous range of A-bombs, is now so mobilized that on 24 hours notice a full wing can be on its way (by air) from the U. S. to an advanced bomber strip on the rim of the Iron Curtain.

And a SAC wing consists of 45 six-jet B-47s, 20 air-tankers, 30 air freighters, 2,586 men, 300 tons of spare parts and food and other supplies capable of keeping men and machines going for 30 days without relief.

And there are a lot of wings.

Poignant sight at a recent New York dinner given by the Ed (NBC) Maddens:

Madame Wellington Koo, wife of the veteran Nationalist Chinese diplomat, mourning the death of her good friend Queen Mary, and mourning also her inability to send even a note of condolence to the royal family.

For Britain no longer recognizes the China her husband has represented so ably for so many years.

Plane builders remain years ahead of even the latest models, in their thinking and planning. A big question in the industry now is not how to break through the sonic wall but what to do about the "heat barrier."

The Aircraft Industries Association says that the average modern plane of today would "fuse and pull away and the pilot inside would roast like beef on a spit," if, by some impossible alchemy, it attained speed enough to be confronted by the heat barrier.

Without proper cockpit refrigeration the pilot of the Douglas Skystreak which attained a speed of 1,300 MPH would have been boiled, though the temperature just behind the plane surfaces approached 100 below zero. Friction is the reason. Trans-sonic jet battles over Korea see the planes heating up 100 degrees, rubbing against the cold air.

The industry works sleeplessly on new metals, new shapes, to beat this menace of the future. Aluminum loses 10 per cent of its strength at 200 degrees and thereafter fails rapidly. Plastics still unseen by the marveling public are already passe in the realm of research.

It's a nice day. Think I'll walk.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—I fell off the sled at the first turn, reading the digested accounts of Einstein's new theory. The reporters who manfully sat down to explain the new set of equations lost me shortly after their by-lines.

One comforting fact was unearthed late in their stories, however. Seems that Einstein believes he has "synthesized the fields of gravity and electromagnetism," but can't prove it because he can't fully solve his own equations—and neither Remington Rand nor IBM has come up with a mechanical brain that can solve them either.

For those who exist in the rare air of advanced mathematics, this must be as tantalizing as a light sleeper waiting for that other shoe, upstairs, to drop.

Mr. Charles Einstein, of our sports department, was approached in this emergency. Charles has been in charge of assaying the merit of Prof. Einstein's findings for some time. He is one who will not fret over this latest crop of murky equations. Charles took one look at the fantastically bizarre group of hieroglyphics which is the blackboard version of the new theory, shook his head, and said: "Wrong."

Russia's new peaceful overtures, naturally suspected by the free world, could be based on any of a hundred reasons. One, perhaps, is this:

Gen. Curt LeMay's Strategic Air Command, carriers of our enormous range of A-bombs, is now so mobilized that on 24 hours notice a full wing can be on its way (by air) from the U. S. to an advanced bomber strip on the rim of the Iron Curtain.

And a SAC wing consists of 45 six-jet B-47s, 20 air-tankers, 30 air freighters, 2,586 men, 300 tons of spare parts and food and other supplies capable of keeping men and machines going for 30 days without relief.

And there are a lot of wings.

Poignant sight at a recent New York dinner given by the Ed (NBC) Maddens:

Madame Wellington Koo, wife of the veteran Nationalist Chinese diplomat, mourning the death of her good friend Queen Mary, and mourning also her inability to send even a note of condolence to the royal family.

For Britain no longer recognizes the China her husband has represented so ably for so many years.

Plane builders remain years ahead of even the latest models, in their thinking and planning. A big question in the industry now is not how to break through the sonic wall but what to do about the "heat barrier."

The Aircraft Industries Association says that the average modern plane of today would "fuse and pull away and the pilot inside would roast like beef on a spit," if, by some impossible alchemy, it attained speed enough to be confronted by the heat barrier.

Without proper cockpit refrigeration the pilot of the Douglas Skystreak which attained a speed of 1,300 MPH would have been boiled, though the temperature just behind the plane surfaces approached 100 below zero. Friction is the reason. Trans-sonic jet battles over Korea see the planes heating up 100 degrees, rubbing against the cold air.

The industry works sleeplessly on new metals, new shapes, to beat this menace of the future. Aluminum loses 10 per cent of its strength at 200 degrees and thereafter fails rapidly. Plastics still unseen by the marveling public are already passe in the realm of research.

It's a nice day. Think I'll walk.

Card of Thanks

We take this manner in which to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our neighbors and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Nellie C. Spriggs. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars for the funeral.

The DAUGHTERS

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our wife and mother, Annie M. Rowe, who died April 2, 1939.

They say that time heals all sorrow,
And helps us to forget;
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.

Program Listed For Clean-Up Campaign Here

Committee Suggests Activities For Week

The committee, in charge of the local "Clean-Up" Week slated May 9 to 17, last night formulated a daily program for the clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign at a meeting in the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce offices.

The Chamber's committee headed by H. D. 'Hal" Barber, of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, and Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, set the kick-off day for Saturday, May. 9.

This day will be the Repair and Modernize Day devoted to proeprty owners who will start repairs and modernization programs including fixing up of broken steps and walks.

Tin Can Matinee

Also planned for the first day of the drive is a "Tin Can" matinee at the Garden Theatre for children of the community. The matinee will begin at 10 a. m. and price of admission will be one or more tin cans. A city street department truck will be in front of the theatre to receive the cans.

Films to be shown will include cartoons, safety and health themes and cleanliness as a requisite of a good citizen. A special treat will be free balloons and painter's caps for each child.

On Sunday, May 10, the drive will observe Church Cooperation Day. The committee will request clergymen to deliver sermons in all churches on the theme, "cleanliness is Next To Godliness."

Monday, May 11 will be called Safety and Fire Prevention Day under the direction of Lynn Walker, state safety instructor and Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker. The clean-up committee for this day suggests clean up of basements and attics, dispose of rags, waste paper and other rubbish, check for defective chimneys, heating equipment, electrical appliances, connections and wiring, paint dark places with light reflecting paint and install needed lights for safety.

Front and Back Yard Day will be held on Tuesday, May 12 and will promote such things as cleaning of alleys, repairing fences and garages, cutting lawns, taking out dandelions and weeds, preparing garden plots for flowers and vegetables and cleaning gutters and walks.

Safety, Health, Planting

Wednesday, May 13, will be set aside for Vacant Lot and Paint-Up Day. The program calls for cleaning lots of tin cans, paper, weeds and other rubbish, planting of garden plots, and leveling off lots for playgrounds where possible.

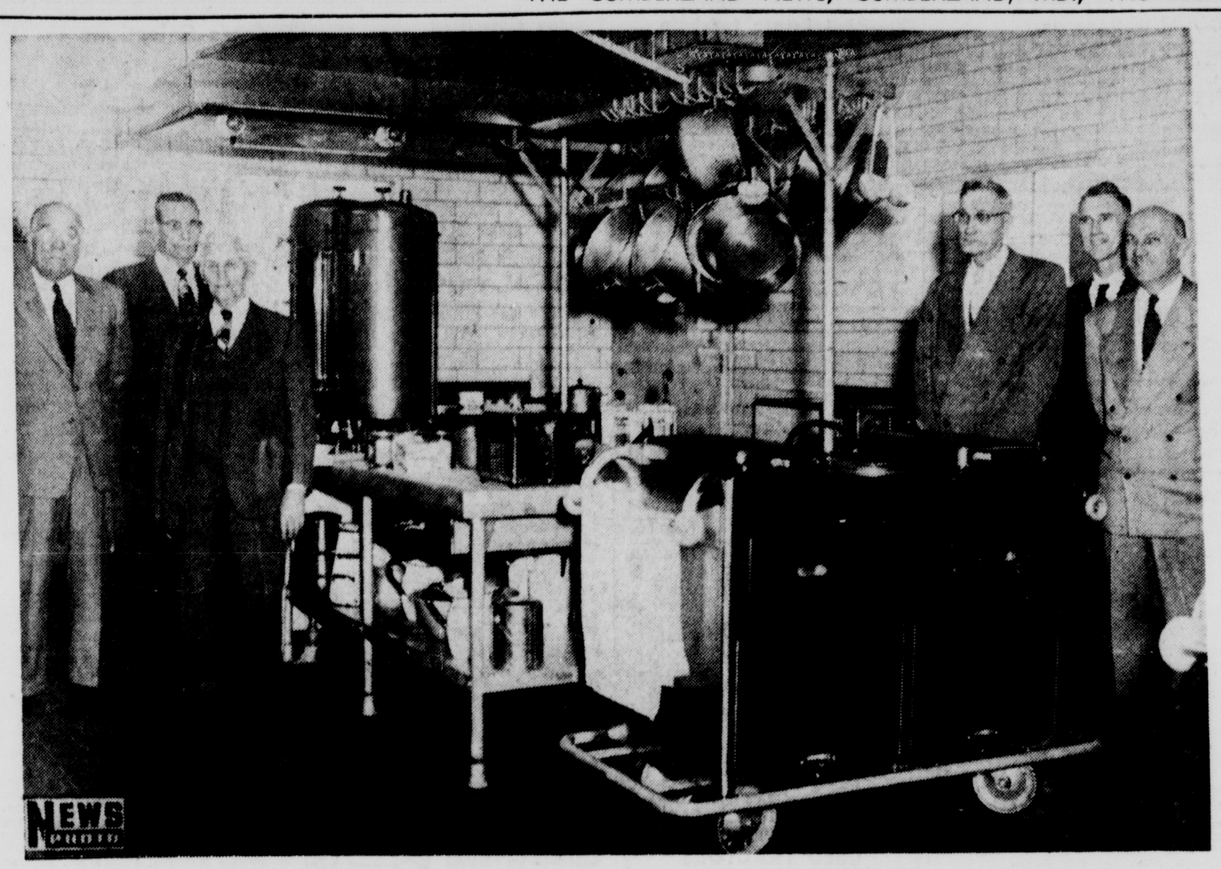
The committee will also urge painting of all buildings that need it, painting of porches, fences, woodwork, screens and lawn furniture. Generally the day will be devoted to painting jobs inside and out.

Thursday, May 14, will be called Landscaping and Plant Up Day and will be devoted to planting flowers, gardens, trees and shrubs. The next day is Health Day under the direction of Dr. Winter R. Frantz and J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian.

This part of the campaign will include cleaning up of breeding places of flies, mosquitoes and rats, disinfecting and seeing that tight-fitting tops are put on garbage cans and installing traps for rats and mice. The program, which will include a year-around effort, calls for starling elimination, rodent, mosquito, fly and weed control.

On Saturday, May 16, a final inspection day will be held. Leaders in the clean-up drive, city officials, health, safety and fire commissioners will be included in the group to inspect results of the campaign.

Anthony Saeli, manager of the Chamber, said Clean-Up Week is designed to spark a conitnuous civic development program. He added that many civic clubs and groups have set up programs to participate in the clean up-drive.



New Sylvan Retreat Kitchen

County officials are shown as they visited the new kitchen at Sylvan Retreat which has been in operation only since about the middle of March. The new kitchen is equipped with two steam tables, one shown in the foreground, an electric dish washer, and new electric stoves. Pictured, left to right, are Dr. J. E. McLean, county physician; James G. Stevenson, clerk to Allegany County Board of Commissioners; James Holmes, commissioner; Raymond G. Messmer, superintendent of Sylvan Retreat; James Orr, county commissioner and William H. Lemmert, president of the county Board of Commissioners.

Zoning Changes Are Proposed By Commission

Board Recommends Bond Issue Bill

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday recommended that three areas of the city be changed to business zones and that a fourth revert to a residential area.

The suggestions are that all of Williams Street become a business zone, that the northeastern side of Louisiana Avenue between the Thomas S. Post home and the Reed home become a business zone and that Maryland Avenue to Virginia Avenue, become a business zone.

The board recommended also that the east side of Fayette Street, between Washington and Greene streets, revert to a residential zone.

Hearings Planned

The commission will begin to take steps leading to action on the recommendations. Public notice must be given and a public hearing held prior to recommending zoning changes to the Mayor and Council. That group must go through similar procedure before any change becomes effective.

The commission, headed by James Alfred Avirett, urged the passage of a bill providing a $150,000 bond issue to finance a right of way for the Industrial Boulevard in South Cumberland.

Avirett said the two cents on the tax rate needed for the issue would be a good investment, since one new plant would pay the cost of the land needed.

Would Grade Route

Completion of the highway, the group pointed out, would make available a number of good industrial sites. They said they thought the funds would be enough to secure land and grade the road, but not surface it.

C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, said an occupancy permit has been issued for a used car lot on Orchard Street, but that the city has denied the construction of a permanent building there.

The street is one of several to be widened through the $350,000 traffic improvement bond issue which has been signed into law.

Annual Inspection Is Given Area Fire Danger Stations

The annual inspection of fire danger stations located in forests of this district is being made by John J. Keetch, fire control forester of Asheville, N. C.

Keetch, according to William H. Johnson, district forester, is affiliated with the Southeastern Forest Experiment Station, and supervises operations of fire danger stations throughout Eastern United States.

This morning he will be in Garrett County and inspect the station at Harrington Manor, Johnson added. Yesterday he was at the Green Ridge station located in Allegany County at 15 Mile Creek.

On Tuesday Keetch inspected the station at High Knob in Frederick County. During his annual visit Keetch inspects the mechanical efficiency and operation of equipment of various stations and instructs personnel on new methods or developments toward forest fire prevention and control.

Johnson noted that the time of the year is approaching when forest fires become more prevalent bringing damage to valuable timberlands.

Advance study in the prevention of fires throughout the state and nation was noted yesterday by Johnson as he explained the use of a danger meter which provides a burning index for foresters, and gives an indication of possible danger of devastating fires.

Factors used in classifying these dangers include the time of year, fuel moisture content in floor of forest, amount of rainfall, number of days since last rainfall and wind velocity.

The above factors are correlated on the meter and an indication of the lurking danger given. Through the use of the burning index fire control personnel can be organized depending on the information received. Danger stations have been maintained in the district since 1944, Johnson added.

Weather

The month of April began yesterday with a typical shower during the afternoon assuring an abundance of May flowers. The mercury remained in the 50's during the day in downtown Cumberland. Forecast for today is cloudy and colder. The high temperature recorded in Constitution Park yesterday was 56 degrees and the low reading was 42 with the mercury registering 50 degrees at 8 p.m. yesterday. A total of .35 inches of rain was reported and humidity at 6 p.m. was 97 per cent.

Delegates Revive Bill To Legalize Use Of Radar

Will Reconsider Defeated Measure

A bill to legalize the use of radar clocking devices in nabbing speeders was given a new lease on life yesterday when the House of Delegates decided to reconsider after having killed it a day earlier.

The House dragged the bill back from the legislative oblivion to which it had been banished Tuesday and sent it back to the Judiciary Committee.

The committee is expected to take on amendments which proponents hope will remove objections that led to the original bill's defeat by the House.

Delegates also did an about-face by reviving and enacting a bill to require submission of the names of welfare recipients monthly to the commissioners of Kent and Anne Arundel counties. The bill, which had died earlier this week for lack of a majority, was sent on to the governor for his signature.

Attachment Bill Fails

A bill to permit creditors to obtain attachments on salaries of less than $100 a pay period failed passage a second time. The delegates earlier had ridden it down 78-15, but voted for it 57-55 yesterday. That vote was just five short of the necessary constitutional majority.

Del. White (R-Wicomico), the sponsor, pleaded the advantages of the proposal had not been explained fully Tuesday. He said it would give small merchants "relief from bad debts."

He explained they cannot attach salaries now unless the debtor receives more than $100 a pay period. His bill would have permitted attachment of 10 per cent of wages below $100.

"It is not a weapon to dun people," White said, "because it requires court sanction."

Del. North (D-Talbot) agreed the proposal was not unreasonable since the "state can attach and does if you don't pay your income taxes. Businessmen should have the same privilege."

Del. Kelly (R-Allegany) opposed such attachments from experience, he said. He stated Allegany County had tried such a law and repealed it.

He said one of the bad features was that employers of debtors after the first attachment would say "pay it all up or lose your job."

Optometry Bill Fails

The House turned down two more bills which would increase membership on the Washington Suburban Sanitary District and permit optometrists to sell glasses to children under 15 without prescriptions.

The optometrist bill drew only 26 votes in the affirmative and 32 against after a brief statement by Del. Thompson (D-Dorchester).

He said he just wanted the House to know that two doctors testified at a hearing on the bill that it is "impossible to furnish glasses properly unless the children are treated with eye drops and optometrists are not equipped to administer them."

Removal of the governor from granting paroles was approved and the bill was shipped back to the Senate for concurrence in an amendment. The House change would give the governor a say only in the parole of life termers. Otherwise they would be granted by a three-man board.

Local Jaycees Elect Eight New Directors

Officer To Be Named May 6

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce elected eight new directors last night at a dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Country Club.

Elected for two-year terms beginning May 1 were Albert D. Darby, Richard A. Sell, James M. Martinson, Joseph E. Pellerzi, Robert E. Moore, George L. Hughes Jr., Miles S. Amick and Paul A. Buchanan.

Election of officers will be held at a meeting May 6 at Ali Ghan Country Club.

James M. McIntosh Jr., who is leaving Cumberland next week to take a position at Richmond, Va., was presented with a certificate of merit for his outstanding work in the Cumberland Jaycees.

Two visitors to last night's meeting were Roland Hebb of Hagerstown, state Jaycee vice president, and Ray McNemar, of Baltimore, chairman of the committee in charge of the state caravan to the National Jaycee Convention, June 9-12, at Minneapolis.

The pair spoke briefly on plans for attending the convention, which includes a state caravan of autos which will leave Baltimore June 5.

Logan Urges Brakes For SRC Program

ANNAPOLIS, April 1 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee today received its chairman's ideas for putting some brakes on the State Roads Commission's long range highway modernization ambitions.

Del. Logan (D-Caroline) submitted and explained 44 amendments with the comment "time is growing short." The Legislature has to end by next Monday and the Roads Commission program has been stalled in both houses.

The committee and officials of the State Roads Commission will go over the Logan recommendations tomorrow.

The main changes would:

1. Provide for legislative review of the program every four years.

2. Limit issuance of bonds to 25 million dollars at a time and a maximum of 50 million dollars outstanding.

Zoning Changes Are Proposed By Commission

Board Recommends Bond Issue Bill

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday recommended that three areas of the city be changed to business zones and that a fourth revert to a residential area.

The suggestions are that all of Williams Street become a business zone, that the northeastern side of Louisiana Avenue between the Thomas S. Post home and the Reed home become a business zone and that Maryland Avenue to Virginia Avenue, become a business zone.

The board recommended also that the east side of Fayette Street, between Washington and Greene streets, revert to a residential zone.

Hearings Planned

The commission will begin to take steps leading to action on the recommendations. Public notice must be given and a public hearing held prior to recommending zoning changes to the Mayor and Council. That group must go through similar procedure before any change becomes effective.

The commission, headed by James Alfred Avirett, urged the passage of a bill providing a $150,000 bond issue to finance a right of way for the Industrial Boulevard in South Cumberland.

Avirett said the two cents on the tax rate needed for the issue would be a good investment, since one new plant would pay the cost of the land needed.

Would Grade Route

Completion of the highway, the group pointed out, would make available a number of good industrial sites. They said they thought the funds would be enough to secure land and grade the road, but not surface it.

C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, said an occupancy permit has been issued for a used car lot on Orchard Street, but that the city has denied the construction of a permanent building there.

The street is one of several to be widened through the $350,000 traffic improvement bond issue which has been signed into law.

Annual Inspection Is Given Area Fire Danger Stations

The annual inspection of fire danger stations located in forests of this district is being made by John J. Keetch, fire control forester of Asheville, N. C.

Keetch, according to William H. Johnson, district forester, is affiliated with the Southeastern Forest Experiment Station, and supervises operations of fire danger stations throughout Eastern United States.

This morning he will be in Garrett County and inspect the station at Harrington Manor, Johnson added. Yesterday he was at the Green Ridge station located in Allegany County at 15 Mile Creek.

On Tuesday Keetch inspected the station at High Knob in Frederick County. During his annual visit Keetch inspects the mechanical efficiency and operation of equipment of various stations and instructs personnel on new methods or developments toward forest fire prevention and control.

Johnson noted that the time of the year is approaching when forest fires become more prevalent bringing damage to valuable timberlands.

Advance study in the prevention of fires throughout the state and nation was noted yesterday by Johnson as he explained the use of a danger meter which provides a burning index for foresters, and gives an indication of possible danger of devastating fires.

Factors used in classifying these dangers include the time of year, fuel moisture content in floor of forest, amount of rainfall, number of days since last rainfall and wind velocity.

The above factors are correlated on the meter and an indication of the lurking danger given. Through the use of the burning index fire control personnel can be organized depending on the information received. Danger stations have been maintained in the district since 1944, Johnson added.

Delegates Revive Bill To Legalize Use Of Radar

Will Reconsider Defeated Measure

A bill to legalize the use of radar clocking devices in nabbing speeders was given a new lease on life yesterday when the House of Delegates decided to reconsider after having killed it a day earlier.

The House dragged the bill back from the legislative oblivion to which it had been banished Tuesday and sent it back to the Judiciary Committee.

The committee is expected to take on amendments which proponents hope will remove objections that led to the original bill's defeat by the House.

Delegates also did an about-face by reviving and enacting a bill to require submission of the names of welfare recipients monthly to the commissioners of Kent and Anne Arundel counties. The bill, which had died earlier this week for lack of a majority, was sent on to the governor for his signature.

Attachment Bill Fails

A bill to permit creditors to obtain attachments on salaries of less than $100 a pay period failed passage a second time. The delegates earlier had ridden it down 78-15, but voted for it 57-55 yesterday. That vote was just five short of the necessary constitutional majority.

Del. White (R-Wicomico), the sponsor, pleaded the advantages of the proposal had not been explained fully Tuesday. He said it would give small merchants "relief from bad debts."

He explained they cannot attach salaries now unless the debtor receives more than $100 a pay period. His bill would have permitted attachment of 10 per cent of wages below $100.

"It is not a weapon to dun people," White said, "because it requires court sanction."

Del. North (D-Talbot) agreed the proposal was not unreasonable since the "state can attach and does if you don't pay your income taxes. Businessmen should have the same privilege."

Del. Kelly (R-Allegany) opposed such attachments from experience, he said. He stated Allegany County had tried such a law and repealed it.

He said one of the bad features was that employers of debtors after the first attachment would say "pay it all up or lose your job."

Optometry Bill Fails

The House turned down two more bills which would increase membership on the Washington Suburban Sanitary District and permit optometrists to sell glasses to children under 15 without prescriptions.

The optometrist bill drew only 26 votes in the affirmative and 32 against after a brief statement by Del. Thompson (D-Dorchester).

He said he just wanted the House to know that two doctors testified at a hearing on the bill that it is "impossible to furnish glasses properly unless the children are treated with eye drops and optometrists are not equipped to administer them."

Removal of the governor from granting paroles was approved and the bill was shipped back to the Senate for concurrence in an amendment. The House change would give the governor a say only in the parole of life termers. Otherwise they would be granted by a three-man board.

Logan Urges Brakes For SRC Program

ANNAPOLIS, April 1 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee today received its chairman's ideas for putting some brakes on the State Roads Commission's long range highway modernization ambitions.

Del. Logan (D-Caroline) submitted and explained 44 amendments with the comment "time is growing short." The Legislature has to end by next Monday and the Roads Commission program has been stalled in both houses.

The committee and officials of the State Roads Commission will go over the Logan recommendations tomorrow.

The main changes would:

1. Provide for legislative review of the program every four years.

2. Limit issuance of bonds to 25 million dollars at a time and a maximum of 50 million dollars outstanding.

3. Increase the gasoline tax from five to six cents a gallon this year, but postpone any higher motor vehicle registration fees until 1955.

4. Require the Roads Commission to stick to a proposed percentage of roads in the counties with a five per cent leeway.

The commission had presented a program to spend 568 million dollars in 12 years. It also had presented a percentage to be located in each district, but this was not incorporated in the proposed law.
